"Let each become all that he was created capable of being." - Thomas Carlyle (1795 - 1881)

After a three year leave of absence the Wagar Student Council returned. It managed to provide the students of Wagar with a winter carnival, dances, ski trips, a chess and bridge club, a Reach for the Top team and a newspaper that never made it to the printing press. By the middle of the year the school spirit was changing for the better. No longer were students leaving school at 2:45 but many were staying to participate in various activities. However, this is only the beginning. Future student councils must continue to provide Wagar students with activities or their usefulness will vanish into oblivion. We as students must demand more reforms from the administration, such as an uncensored newspaper, music in the halls at lunch time, and better food in the cafeteria to name a few. The only way we will win this battle is if we all show our parents, teachers, and the administration that we are responsible human beings. We must realize that nothing will get done until we decide to do it. This year we have ended one chapter of the Student Council, good luck to those writing the next one.

The Winter Carnival Committee worked hard this year to organize the activities for our carnival. The Committee was headed by Barry Yudcovitch, subheaded by Mark Lesk, and included Jeff Dabrofsky, Robyn Pugash, Marsha Heyman, Mindy Goldman, Dawn Cevina, Rhonda Libman and Robert Sacoransky. This year's Wagar's Winter Carnival was a phenomenal success. Activities were varied, and all were well attended. Winter Carnival week started off with a bang. The reckless Carnival Gorilla invaded the school during the lunch time of Monday, February 14th and immediately proceeded to cause havoc. After school, a local band, Labyrinth, put on a truly original performance for a full house. The following day, the Gong Show paraded Wagar's unusual talents before an overflowing crowd. The winning act was a realistic imitation of the rock group Kiss. The drawing for the gorilla suit raffle took place on Wednesday. The winner, Michael Rothman had the opportunity to wear the gorilla suit all morning and to disrupt classes. He did the latter with much flourish, by overturning occupied desks and attacking various people with textbooks. After school, Ben Ziv, hypnotist extraordinaire put on an entrancing show before several hundred students. Throughout the week, Radio Wagar added spirit to the school corridors by playing popular music at lunch time. And as you walked down the halls you noticed that 2 out of 3 people were wearing winter carnival buttons.

On Friday, two busloads of Wagarites embarked on a ski trip to Smuggler's Notch. The weather was beautiful and the skiing was great. The band Saratoga Reef played some fantastic Rock and Roll on Saturday night at the Winter Carnival Dance. Over 400 people came to dance and listen to the four man band.

Everyone had a good time during Winter Carnival Week, and we hope that there will be many more successful carnivals at Wagar in the years to come.

- Mark Lesk and Barry Yudcovitch.

REACH FOR THE TOP

Wagar's 1977 Reach for the Top team consisted of Elayne Aber, Kenny Dressler, Gary Nachshen and Michael Tanzer. The team practised hard for three months under the skilful coaching of Mrs. Rita Aber and Mrs. Carole Arbes. Unfortunately, in its first round game on February 24, Wagar lost an extremely close and exciting match to Westhill High School by the score of 325 to 310. As captain of Wagar's 1977 Reach for the Top team, I wish good luck to the 1978 team, and I hope that they go all the way, to the national finals.

- Gary Nachshen.
