President's Message: The pressure was on! The Student Council had to act as Wagar's government, entertainer and organiser. With world oil prices falling, gas prices rising, Iran, Iraq & the fall of the world's stock market average indexes, we had to get rolling. The Chocolate Bar Sale stabilized the economy (we had to offset the quickly rolling in Depression). The Wagar Hallowe'en Day was a great success, (costumes, candies, & a pumpkin carving contest. Wow! What fun!) There were successful dances & carnivals. True appreciation goes to our advisor, crutch and friend, Mr. Forman. He filled the gap between our dreams and truthful realities. We also have to thank Mr. Faulconbridge for his patience and eagerness toward our projects. Good luck to all of you in the future and thank you for making it a very successful year.

"GET THE BAKKERS BACK ON PTL" CLUB

Our humble l'il ol' hearts just broke into teensy weensy pieces the day that Jim & Tammy Fae Bakker got kicked off P.T.L. We want to do everything within our power to get them back where they belong. Even though, Tammy Fae won't be lugging her sweet l'il voice & cosmetic bag to Montreal on her latest tour, we know she'll be with us all, in spirit.

Sincerely,
Mara Sue

UGLY CLUB

Those not familiar with this homely pair of gym teachers, we introduce the sole members of THE UGLY CLUB: Don & Pete Ugly. If you've been following the sleazy trail of this beast-like troupe of slobbering basset hounds, you might find the picture less repulsive than past years, due to the exclusion of ex-UGLY Jim "Too handsome-to-be-ugly" Aitken, who was given the boot. Regardless of numerous pleas to get "Pretty Boy" Terry Chuprun into this elite club, Don & Pete refused saying, "Hey, the guy's just too swinging for us."

"Live long and prosperous!"

W.I. ALLEN: ON THE BEAT

I was awakened, one afternoon, from a deep sleep, by an angry postal worker on my doorstep. He was being forced to work 22 minutes after five o'clock (which was 22 minutes longer than he'd like . . .) Inexplicably, amidst the latest strikes, a pile of junk mail, curiously had accumulated on the floor of the ladies' washroom, at the post office. This massive accumulation of junk was left on my front walk and alas, there was no way out for me . . . I had to read and answer the following questions . . .

Who invented cheese balls and why?

Actually, it has been a reasonably well kept secret as to the origin of this cheesy snack-time treat. In 1952, the United States government was performing tests on perfecting the flawless T.V. game show host. Well, there was a little accident, a few fires started, some mice revolted and certain well-known physicists were transformed into small, round, orange cheese balls. It still remains an unexplained phenomenon and till this day, the US government denies any involvement.

It's acceptable to lick your fingers when eating fried chicken, but what about someone else's?

It is, as long as the other person:

- Is smaller than you;
- Has worse manners than you;
- Does not look like the type who might start a fight (if so, refer to a);
- Presents an adequate amount of crumbs on his fingers. (There has to be enough for the both of you or it's not worth the effort.)

Are there any people who have never eaten library paste?

I wish I could say there were, but I can't. Because of a mix up in delivery, the library got the shipment of mayonnaise and the cafeteria received the case of library paste. The kitchen staff wishes to convey their deepest apologies and can almost promise that only 3 or 4 gallons were used in a period of 9 months.

Who invented the "Thick Stuff" they use in all school cafeterias?

Elmer's (see question regarding library paste.)

Do space aliens have naval lint? If so, is it white like ours?

I have never met an alien face to face (or naval to naval) but according to Mr. Ioannou, who claims to have been abducted by U.F.Os on several occasions, "Naval lint? Nah, those buggers don't even have noses!"

Has anyone under the age of 16 ever eaten brussel sprouts voluntarily?

Seven year old, Billy Meyers of Paris, Texas was found to have accidentally eaten a brussel sprout. In his defense, Billy was quoted to have said, "How was I s'posed to know? It looked like an olive and by the time I realized my error, it was too late . . ."

Is it true what they say about black jelly beans?

Yes.

What do they say about black jelly beans?

This one's a toughy. I'll have to let you know in NEXT YEAR'S YEARBOOK . . .

ACTIVITIES

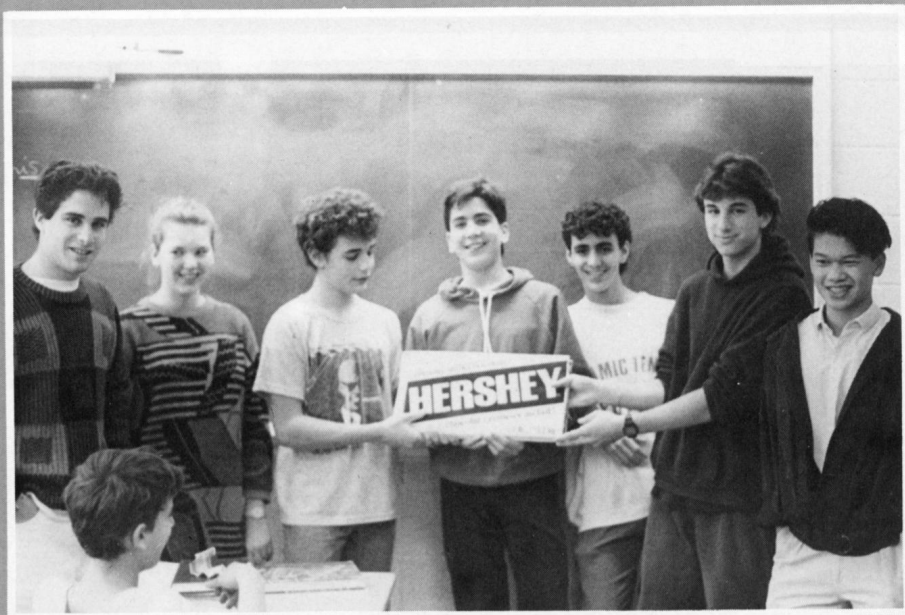

HALLOWEEN

Halloween day . . . did it actually happen? Did half the school actually come in costume? Did Wagar develop school spirit? Did a Wagar student council organize something that worked . . . Yes! The student council, dressed as the seven dwarfs, organized and judged a pumpkin carving contest, as well as a costume contest. The participation in both contests showed a phenomenal amount of school spirit, seldom seen in this school.

CHOCOLATE BAR SALE

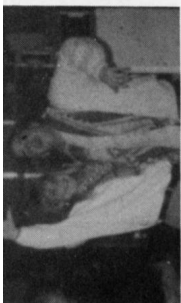

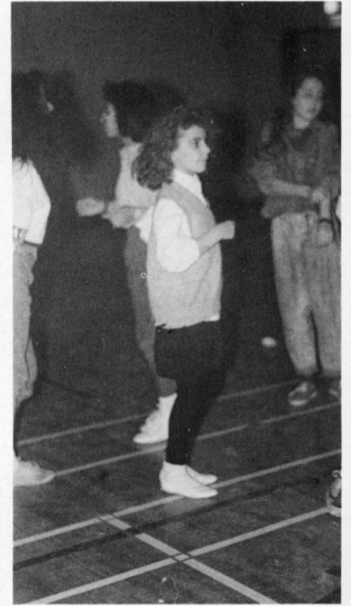

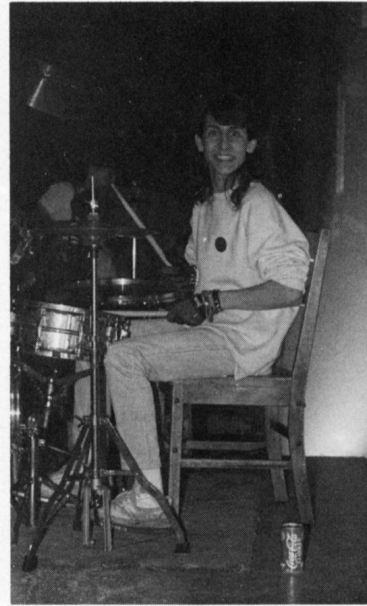

Wagar's annual chocolate bar sale, which took place in the fall of '87, was once again a success. Congratulations to winners, Robbie David, Michael Paa, Brad Kaine and homeroom 231. Thanks to everyone else who made an effort to help raise money for the Student Council.

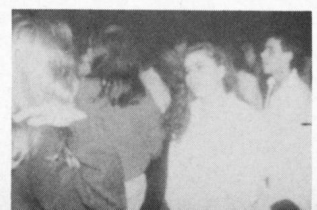

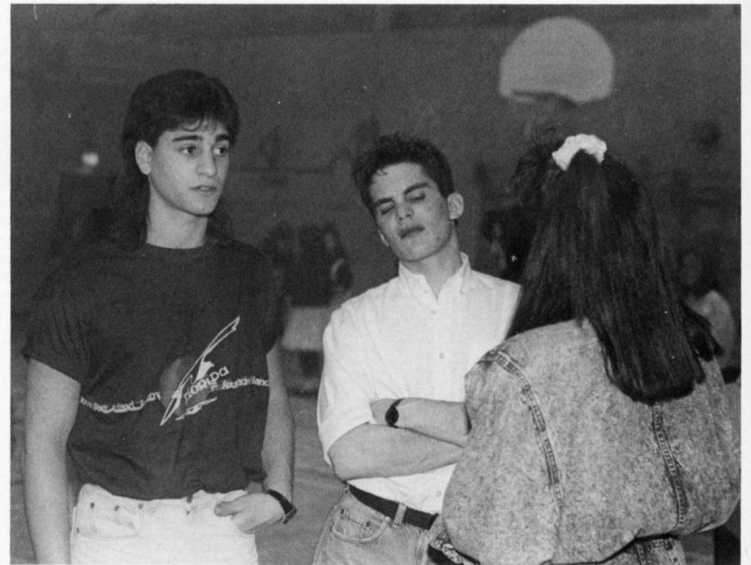

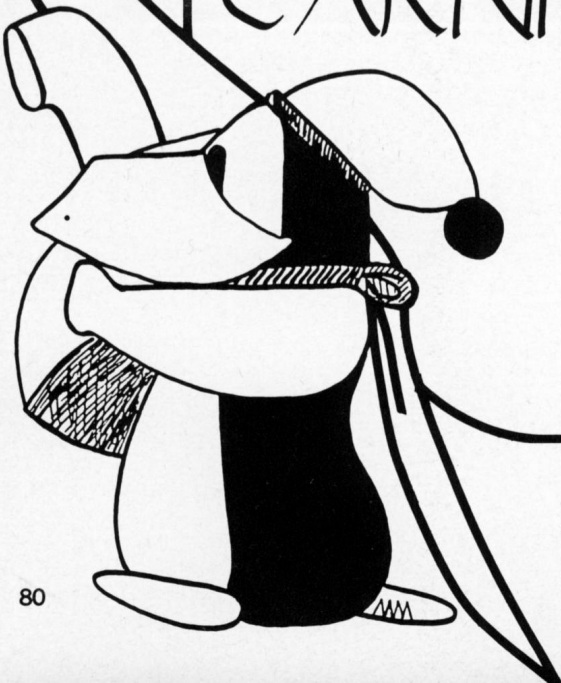

LEGEND'S DANCE

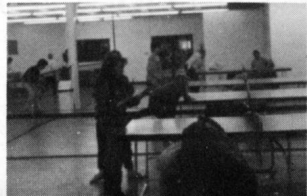

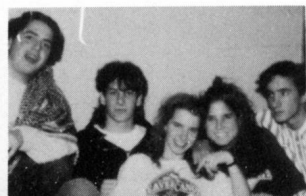

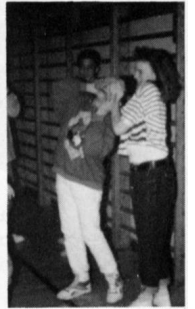

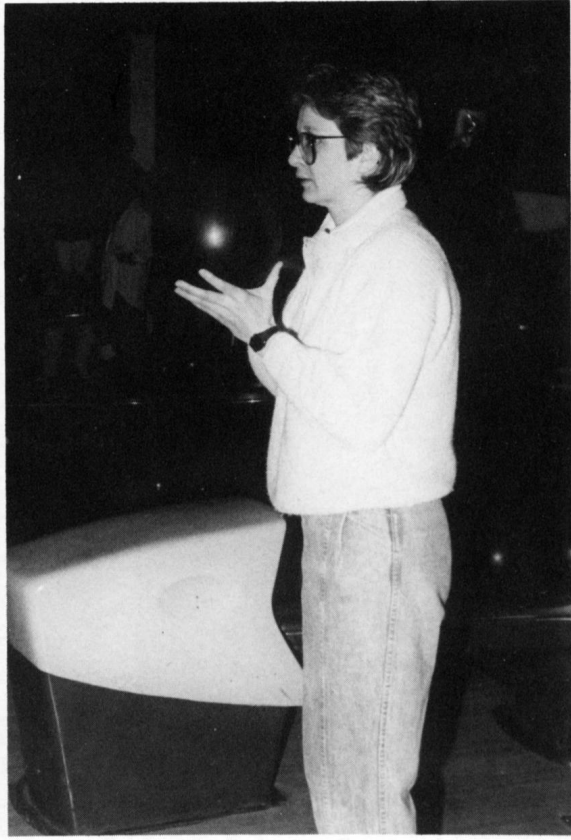

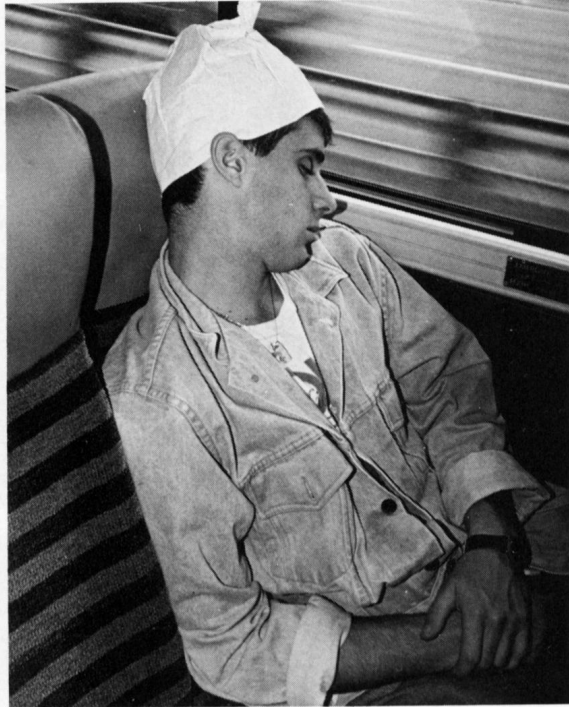

This year's lineup of carnival activities had everyone scampering to get their tickets for skiing, tobogganning & horseback riding, activities at Recreothèque and ice skating as well as for the very successful video dance which was held in the evening and featured the band 'Bad Attitude'.

WINTER CARNIVAL

In Fall '87, a bunch of supposedly literate students went to the home of Trivial Pursuit (yes - Niagara-On-the-Lake) to see a few plays. After we figured out that what we thought was a shopping mall was really the town, we had a great time terrorizing the locals by taking over the barroom. We also saw three plays: Noel Coward's Hay Fever (of which we did an even better imitation), Bernard Shaw's Major Barbara (which was, no offense, a major bore) and Arthur Watkyn's Not In the Book, a hilarious murder mystery. Special thanks to Ms. Rosenberg and Ms. Cox who, although they pretended not to know us, put up with us.

WAGAR FOLLIES

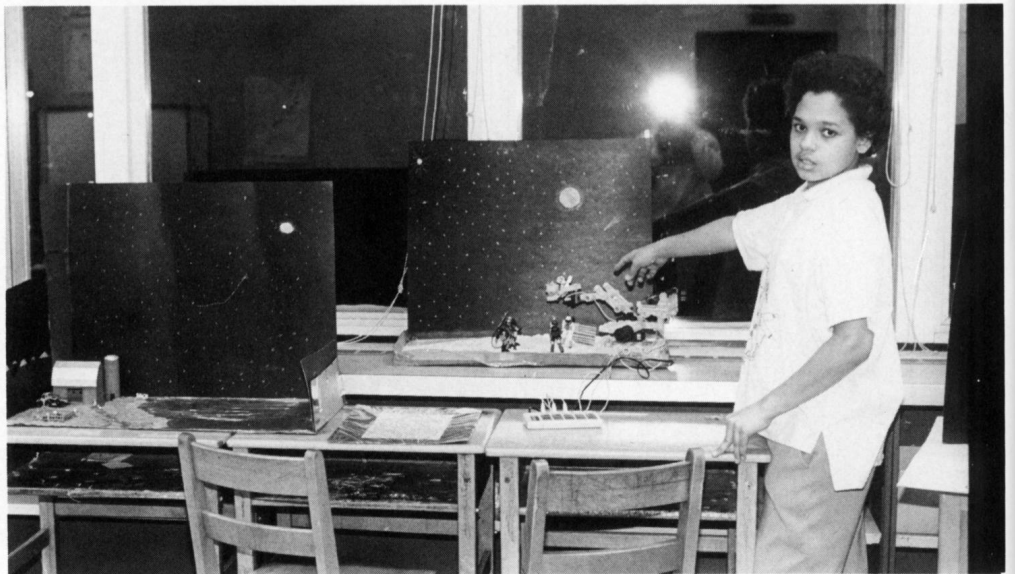

Ladies and Gentlemen . . . If you would turn your attention to center stage . . .

Once again, Wagar's finest singers, dancers, and actors displayed their talents in the annual "Wagar Follies" variety show. As in previous years, the show was a success thanks to the commitment of the students who took part. The success of the show should also be attributed to the dedication and organization of the directors, without whom, it would not have been the same. The show was as much fun to put on as it was to watch.

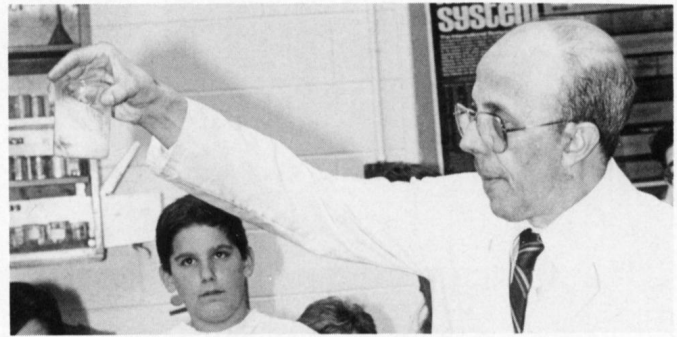

OPEN HOUSE

Once again, Wagar threw its doors open to the world during its annual Open House, on Jan. 26, 1988. The masses were enthralled by the various demonstrations and displays in History, Economics, Geography, Home Ec., Math, Theatre Arts, by Scenes Tennessee Williams Didn't Write, by Chemical Magic and by the Wagar Band, among other displays.

THE STING

The Senior Band's holiday concert in December of 1987 was a tremendous success. Over 600$ in ticket sales was raised to help fund the exchange trip to Caldwell, New Jersey in April, 1988. These concerts and trips would not be possible without the help of the band executives, G. Silver, President; D. Torjman, Vice-President; A. Suk, Treasurer; J. Anson, Librarian; and of course conductor Mr. Pederson.
