PRINCIPAL'S MESSAGE

Dear Graduates,

The editors of this year's Prelude have asked me to write my annual farewell to you, and have informed me the theme for this year's book is "Time".

An appropriate theme for a yearbook, the very word conjures up nostalgic memories, and after all, states exactly what a yearbook is - a collection of memories.

The nostalgia will enter into your yearbook much more quickly than you think. Yet perhaps the "time" you will enjoy it most will be twenty years from now - the year 2005.

What will you be doing then? At thirty-seven years of age you will be well established in your various careers. Many of you will, no doubt, be married, with children of your own, and perhaps appreciating the difficulties of parenting, and appreciating your own parents from a different perspective.

Wherever you are twenty years from now, I believe when you pick up and flip through the pages of this Prelude, you will be adequately rewarded.

Have a happy and successful future.
Good luck to you all.

H. Consadine

Principal

EDITORS' MESSAGE

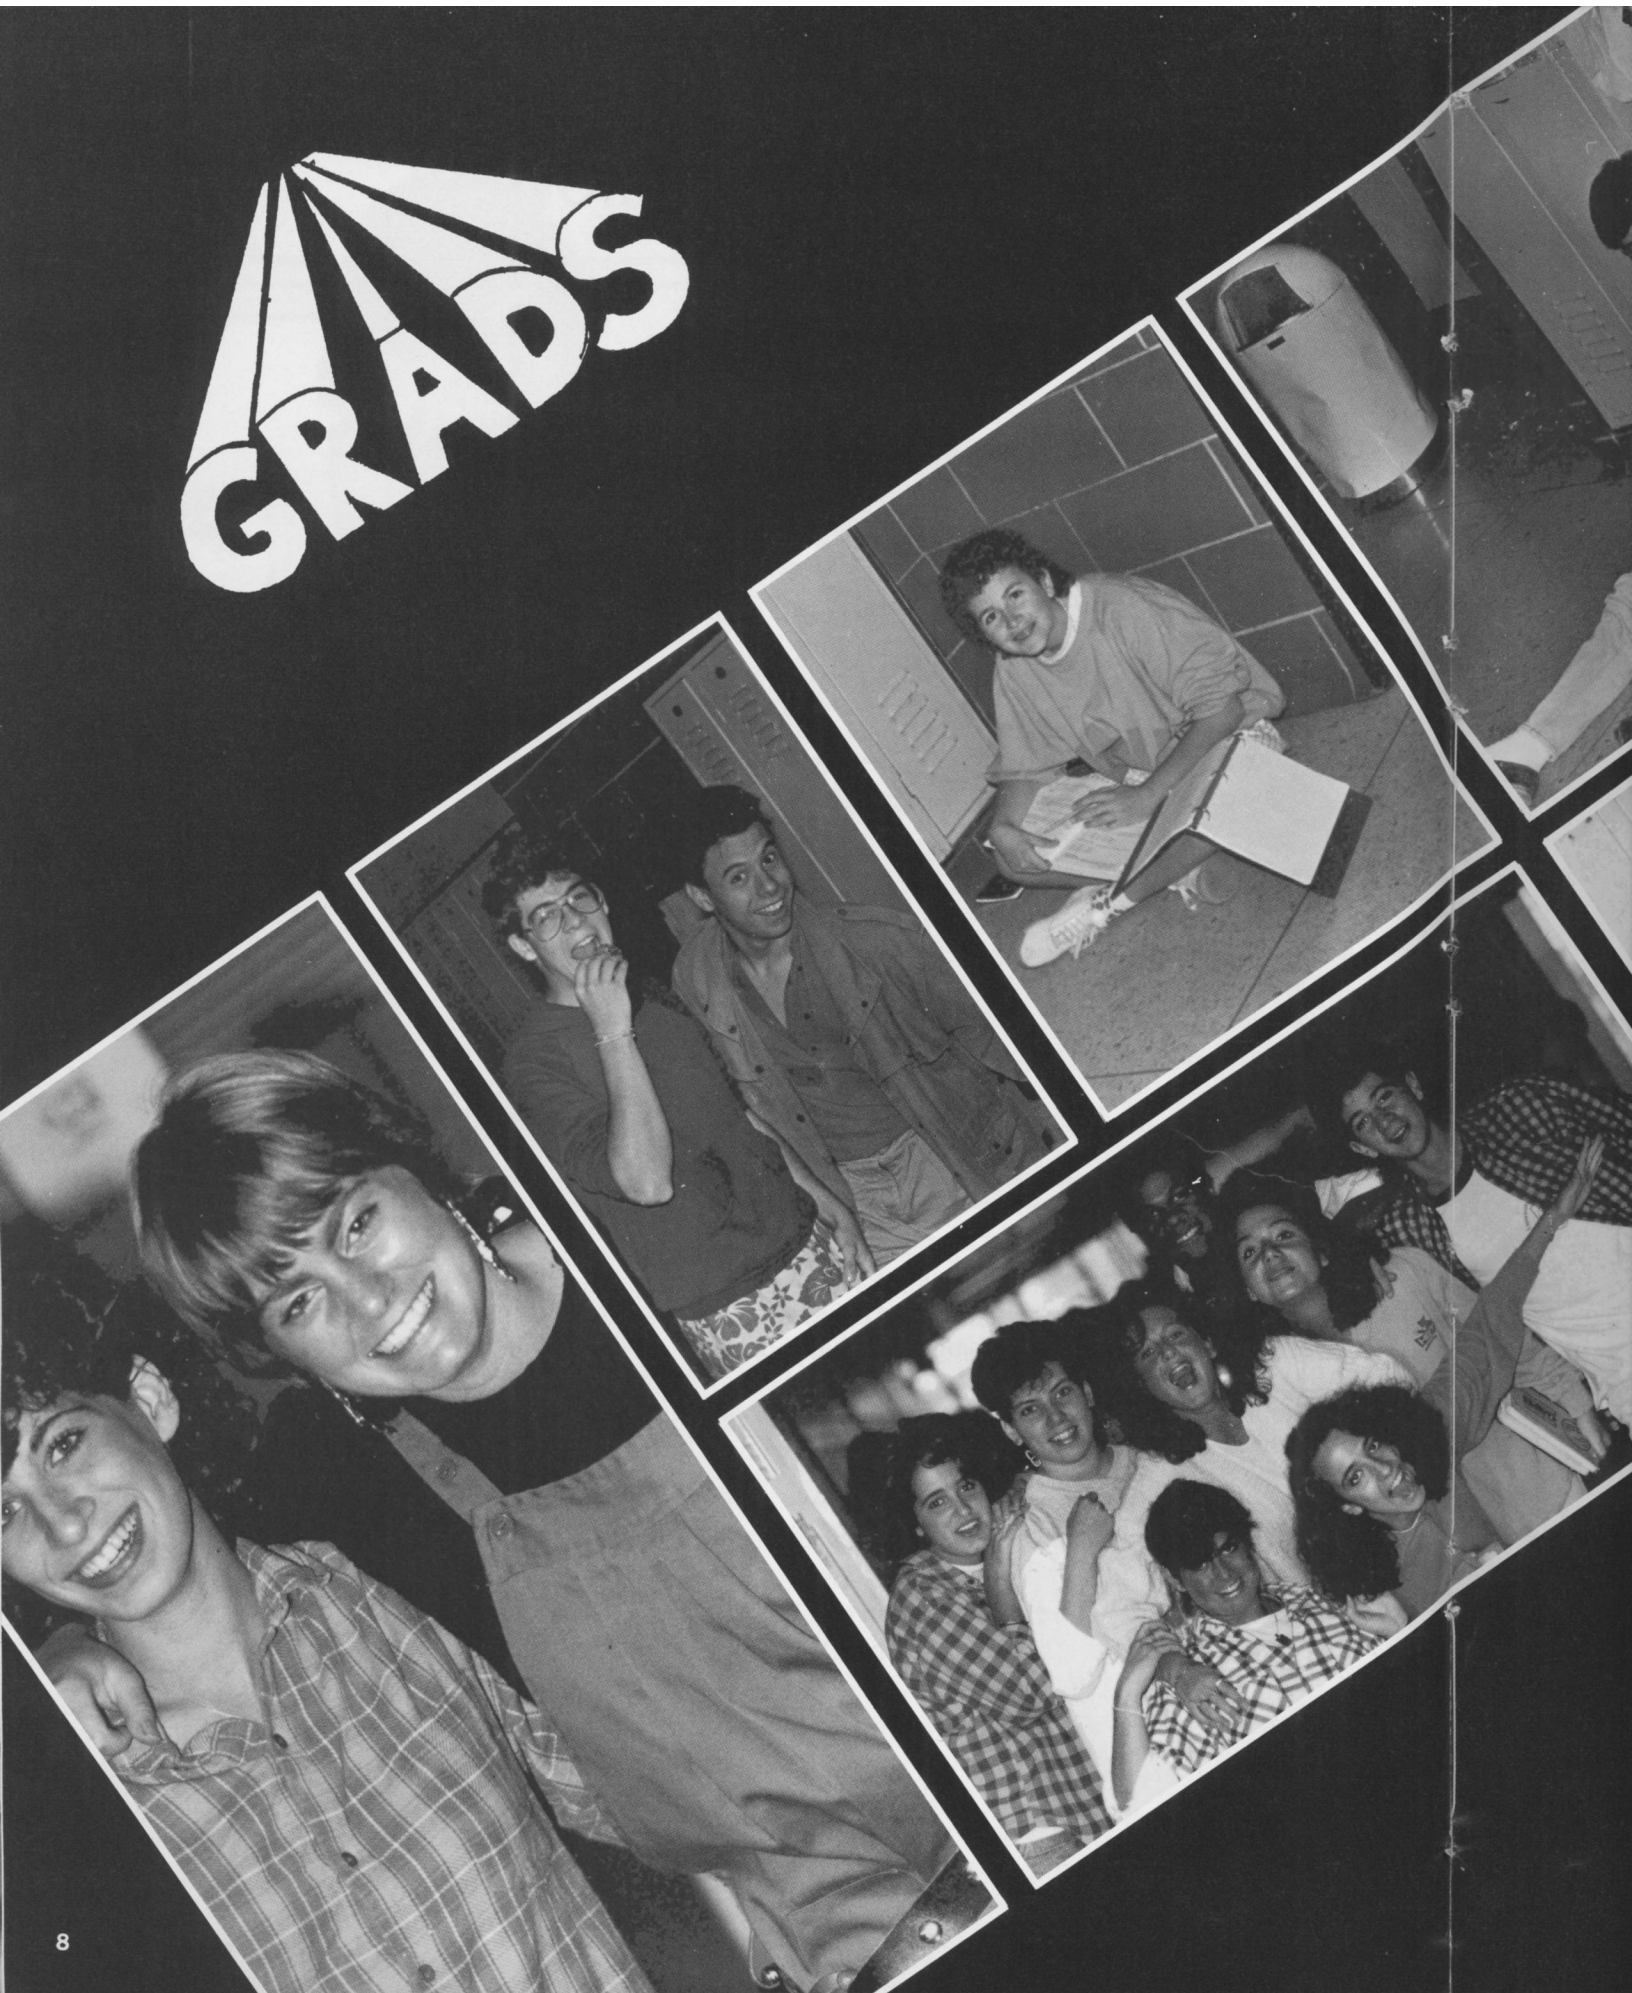

Time stops for no one, and once it's gone you can never bring it back. This is an unfortunate fact, but it's true. Yet we, the editors of Prelude '86, have bent the rules a little. We have created a yearbook that will allow you to go back in time whenever you choose to. Now returning to Wagar and reliving the good times those years held is as easy as flipping through this book.

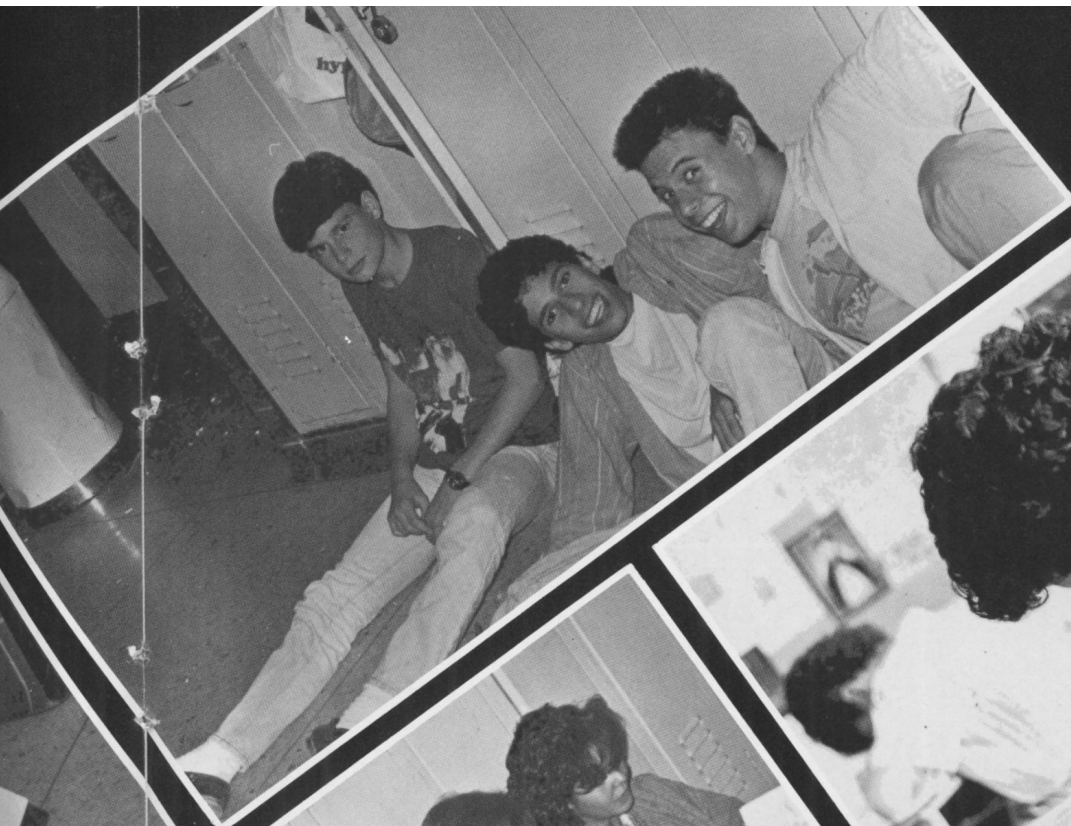

We hope that now, with your past carefully preserved, you can give your full concentration to the future for which we wish you the best of luck!

Sincerely,

Elyse Rosen & Maureen Marvitz

FIND SCHOOL UNINTERESTING?

Do you find school uninteresting, soporific or unchallenging? Then perhaps you haven't been looking at it with the proper frame of mind. One simple way to make school life more intriguing is to see how many times in once class you can get your teacher off the subject he or she is on and onto a totally different tangent, thus wasting class time and perhaps even postponing an approaching test.

The entire trick to this technique is to be subtle while asking about a subject the teacher knows well and loves to lecture on. The question, must of course, require a lengthy answer.

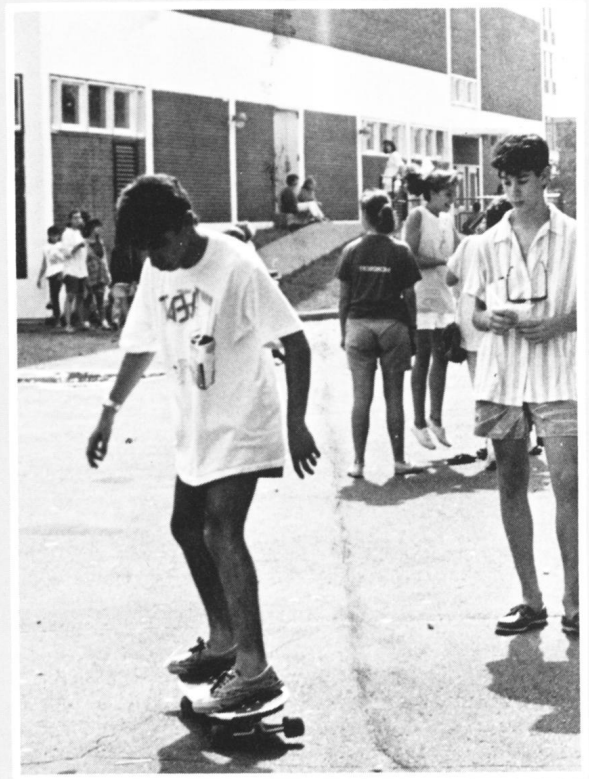

For example, you might try asking a science teacher about all the wildlife in a certain country and how it evolved there. A good question for a economics teacher is "Could you please explain to me the economic situation in Taiwan?", and an excellent query for a geography teacher would be "Could we name and discuss the different climatic zones in Europe? They've always intrigued me." If you really have a lot of time to use up and a teacher well versed in many subjects you could try asking how the wildlife and climatic zones in Europe affect the economic situation in Taiwan.

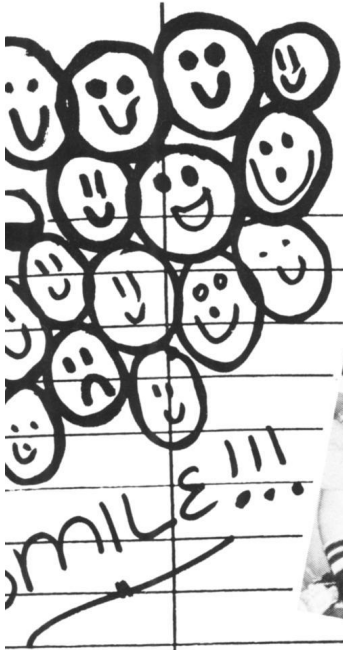

To achieve the best results, ask all the questions with bright, eager eyes and nod intelligently at appropriate times while the teacher is unravelling her explanation. This gives the rest of the class a chance to sleep and catch up with their desk doodling.

With much practice and luck, you and your friends can become experts in this technique, make school more of a challenge and learn all about the economic situation in Taiwan without ever learning anything about the class you're actually in.

PORTRAIT OF MYSELF

As I enter the brown sheath of brick and steel,
A feeling of selfconsciousness overcomes me.
Why is everyone staring/?
Am I that different? Am I?
What is wrong with me?
There must be something or else there would be someone for me to hold on to
I realize we are all of the same caliber, yet my mind must be of different breeding
All I am is myself,
I seem happy, but inside I am not, really.
I try to make others smile,
Yet my own heart weeps.
No one can see what I feel inside,
I must be a good actress - or is it just that they don't care to notice?
As I sit alone in the early hours of the dawn,
listening to themes that seem to recite my hidden feelings,
All of my sorrows spill out into my loneliness,
And I am once again ready to face the new day.

Terry Nesvadba

DAY 4, PERIOD 2

I used to know
but I seem to have forgotten
during my dashes
from class to class.

I used to laugh
but I seem to have forgotten
as I turn more and more Robotic.

I used to dream
but I seem to have forgotten
my mind boggled with tomorrow's test.

I used to care
but I seem to have forgotten
I think I'm lost in yesterday's results.

I used to be happy
but I seem to have forgotten
as all the worries
take over my mind.

I suppose, it may not be too late
'cause sometimes
I remember.

WALK

I am walking down St-Laurent with a friend of mine, side stepping the dusty guts of stores that spill out into the streets and intermingle with the passersby. The people melt into the high stacks of crushed velvet and dirty clothes that I am sure no one will ever buy. Shane wonders aloud how we could manage to steal an enormous roll of material and a furious lobster rustles out to confront him. He looks like a man but his angry black eyes and red face betray him. He is a salty beast with rough manners. "You want something?" He points to Shane's jacket. "We have jackets like that inside for four dollars!" We leave the crustacean behind swirling in a steamy broth of heavy traffic and sticky pavements. I have come here to try and think up an essay, but no words flow. "I love the urban! . . ." says Shane refusing to finish a sentence. "I love to pollute!" He stops walking and empties his pockets onto the sidewalk. "I love to chat with drunks!" There is a drunk available. "This is my friend, Alon" he tells the man. The drunk stumbles forward with enough beer for the day. Shane becomes calmer. "I want to know what you think Wagar is all about", I ask. Shane has never gone to Wagar and he cannot remember any of his high school courses, so he chooses not to answer. Instead he enters a clothes store and exits with a mannequin's head under his jacket. "I mean", I add looking back to see if anyone is chasing us, "this city, this planet, have nothing to do with Wagar. Why bother?" Shane is chewing on banana chips so I don't understand a word that he's saying. "You see Alon, nothing has anything to do with Wagar. Stop whining and face facts. You're leaving anyways, so just let me enjoy myself around you for once. Now, what am I going to do with this head?" The drunk shadows us, catching a gust of hot air when we walk into a shoe store.

RESIDENCE OF YOUR DREAM

You are wandering through the residence of your dream . . .

Moving slowly down the corridor of fear,
You experience the anxiety of total darkness.

Quickly you turn, stepping down the stairs of mystery,
Nervous about your shadow that moves on it's own.

Once inside the room of illusion,
The thousands of flesh eating parasites are merely a hallucination.

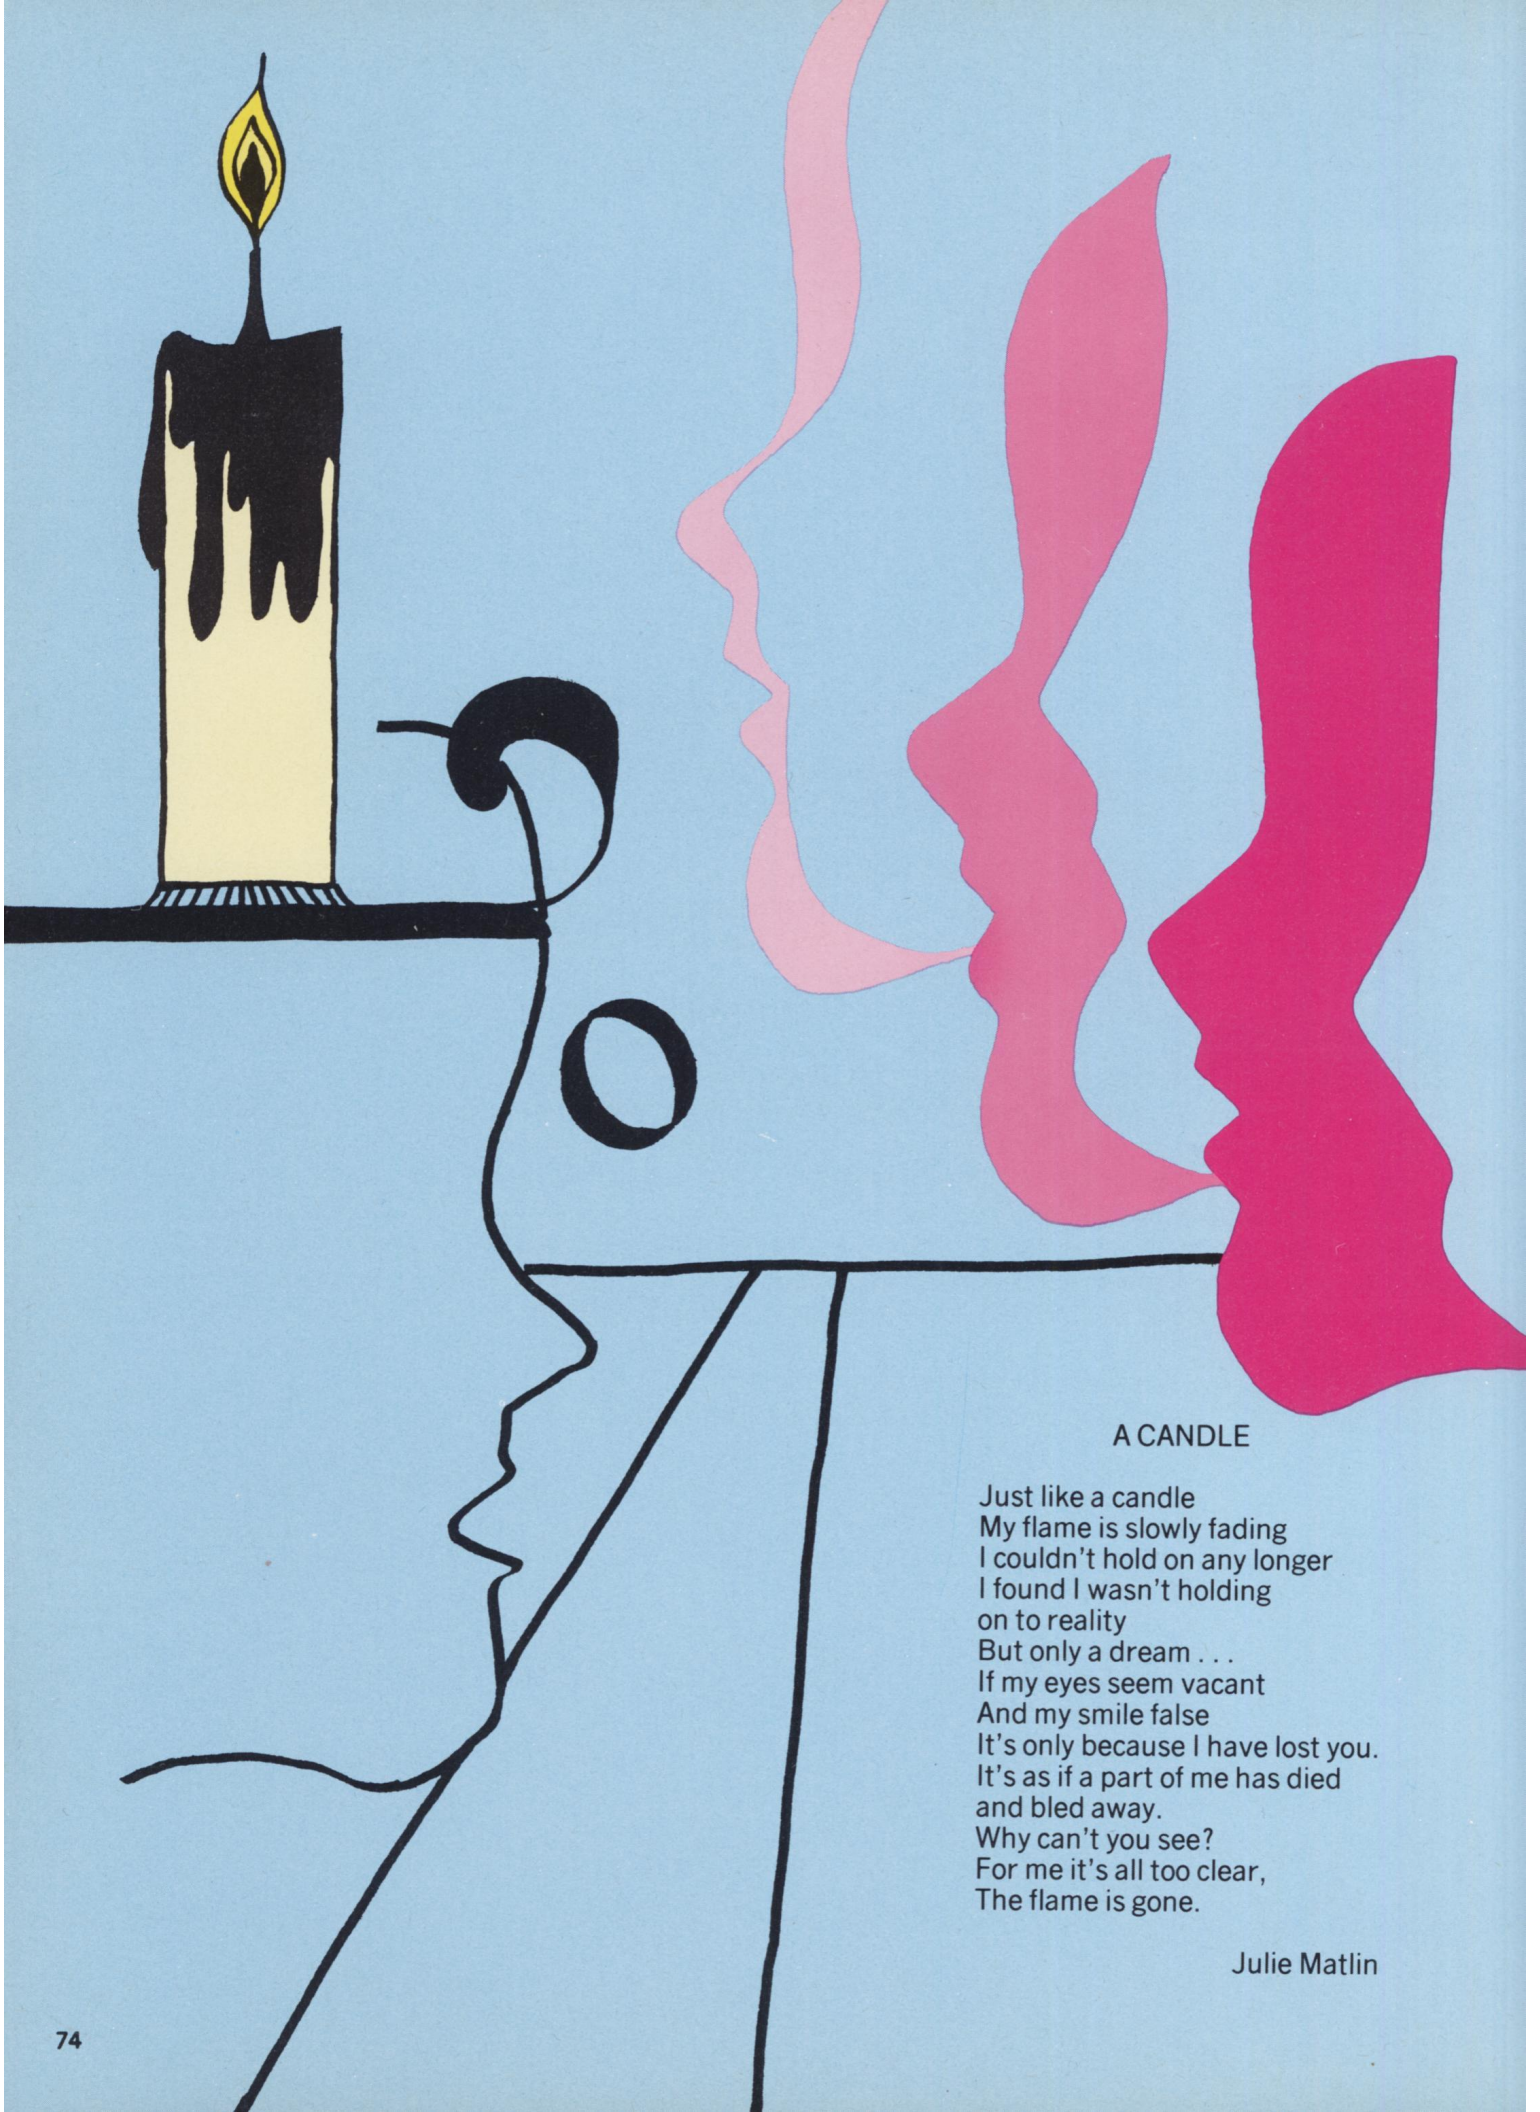

You check inside the closet of horror,
And out jumps the monster from your next nightmare.

You pass by the mirror of lies,
However it reflects no image.

Looking out the window of escape,
You see faceless men guarding your soul.

You then step out the door of reality,
And your eyes open after a long night's sleep.

Robbie Rosman

A CANDLE

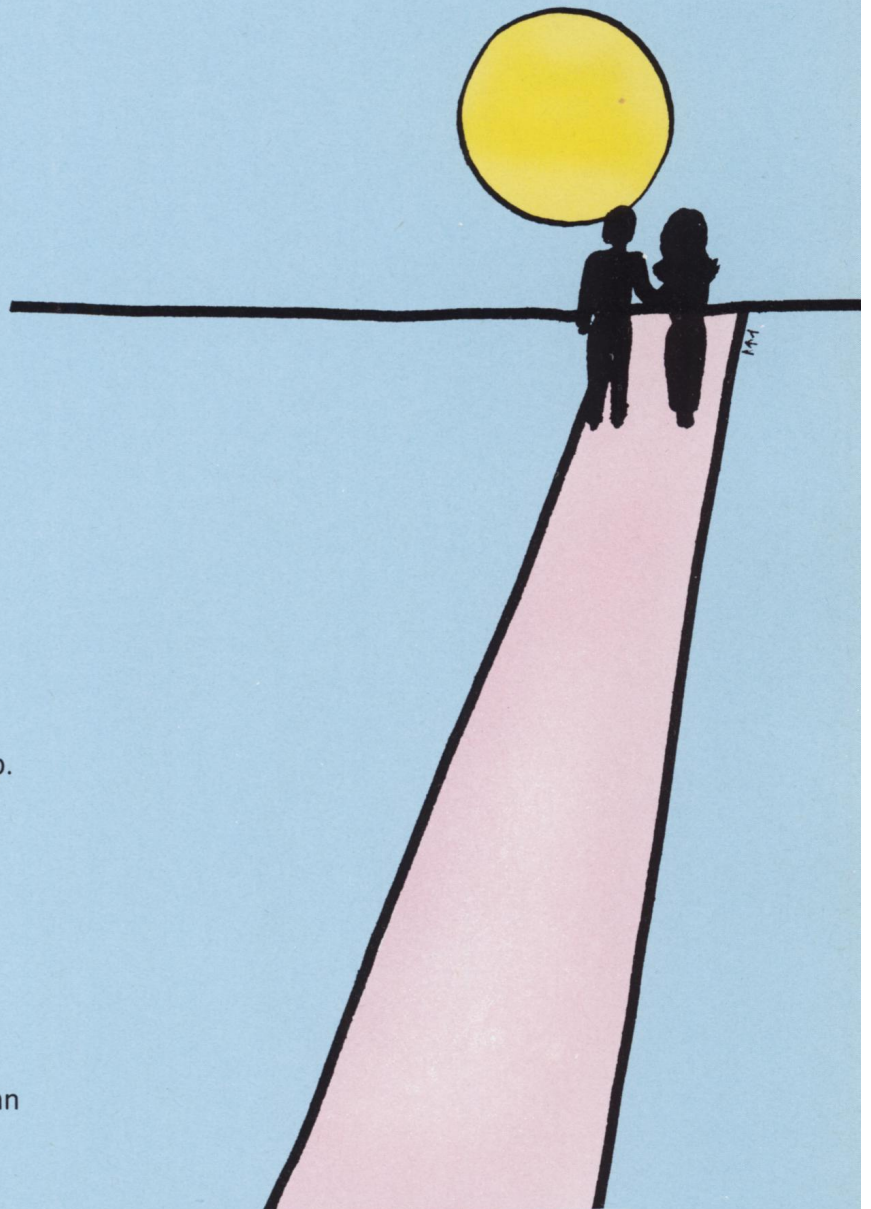

Just like a candle
My flame is slowly fading
I couldn't hold on any longer
I found I wasn't holding on to reality
But only a dream . . .
If my eyes seem vacant
And my smile false
It's only because I have lost you.
It's as if a part of me has died
and bled away.
Why can't you see?
For me it's all too clear,
The flame is gone.

Julie Matlin

MOONLIT NIGHT

There is no moon tonight
To shed light on the path which we once
Walked along together
And like the road
Our friendship is obscure and Meaningless without
Your concern

Lisa Carioto

SUPPRESSED EMOTIONS

You were my friend . . .
But in my dreams so much more.
I was your confidante . . .
But in you I confided nothing.
In my heart was the passion of love . . .
But in yours was the warm glow of friendship.
On your face was a cheerful grin . . .
But on mine was the pain of heartache.

The friendship ceased . . .
But life went on.
The pain has eased . . .
But remaining is the empty feeling of suppressed emotions.

Kelly Freedman

A FRIEND OR A FORTUNE

They put a friend on one side
And a fortune on the other.
"Pick one or the other," said they,
And I had to choose.
A friend or a fortune,
Which would it be?
Would a fortune offer me a destiny?
After hours and days
Of debating this through,
I finally realized that I can have both,
For in a friend,
There is a fortune.
A friend can give you
Love and understanding
And can share
The same hopes and dreams.
You, my friend,
Are the fortune
That will last me forever.

Joelle Dayan

HOPEFUL

It's so subtle,
A touch
A glance
A certain something you say
Could you possibly love me?

I lie awake at night
Wondering
Hoping
Praying
Dreaming that you might love me.

I watch for you
I wait
Impatient
Nervous
Eagerly anticipating the day you say that you love me.

And what joy
What bliss
What total rapture I feel
When you finally tell me that you do.

Elyse Rosen

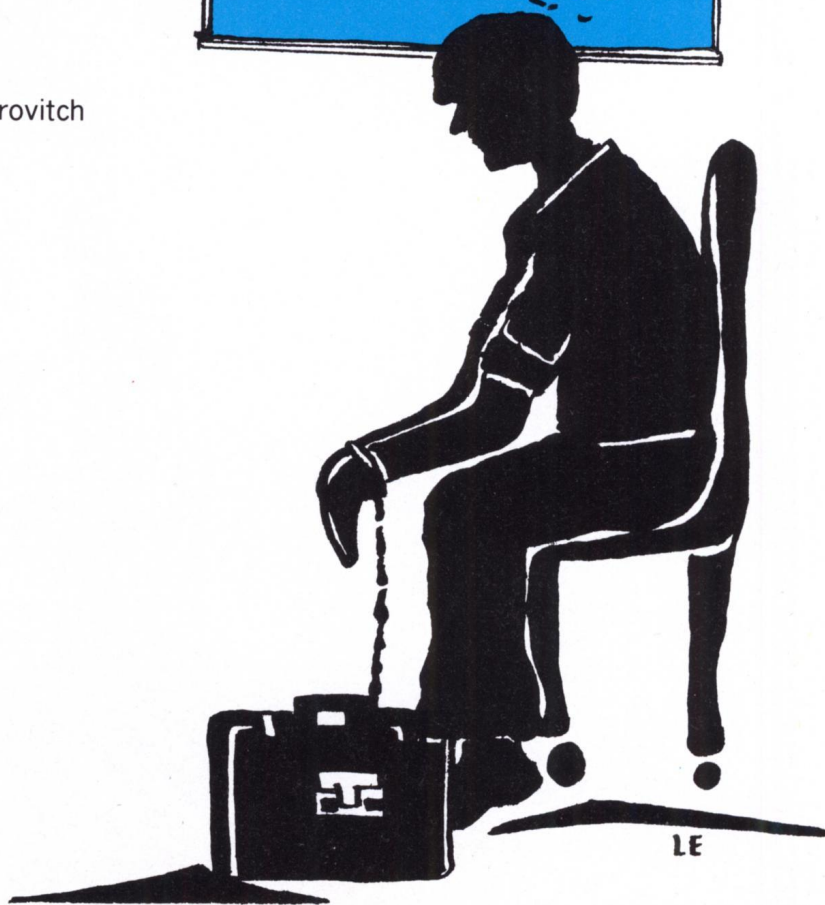

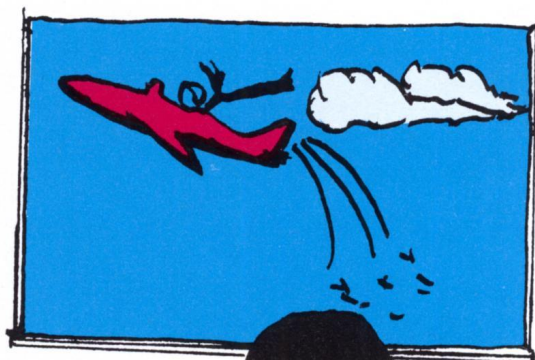

DREAM OR NIGHTMARE?

I remember a boy who dreamed of landing on clouds
in an open, flying machine,
and of drawing
his name
across the sky
with a rainbow
to underline it
while the mortals lay buried beneath tightly twined branches and heavy dust
and looked up at the sky.

Now I see a man who thinks of a marble desk
surrounding him,
with a rolling, closeable
lid
and satin cushions,
His name engraved
on the office door
like the writing on a tombstone placed close to the window where he can look up at the sky.

STOP THE CLOCK

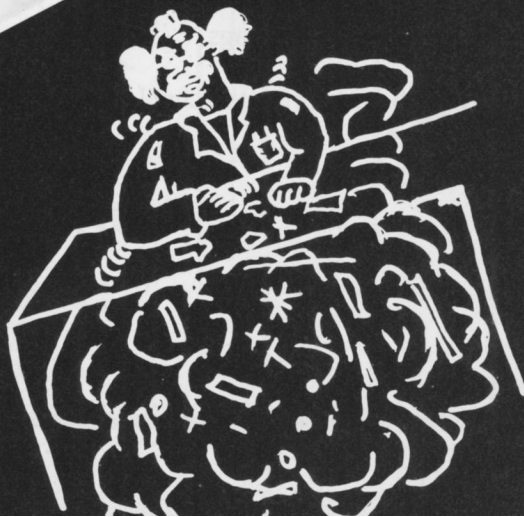

Stop the clock that ticks away
That puts a timer on our day
That informs us when it's time to eat
That instructs us that it's time to sleep.
That tells us when to laugh & cry
That tells us when it's time to die.
Time to get up! Time to go!
You're late! You're late! I know! I know!
Meet you in a minute! Meet you in an hour.
Who on earth gave the clock all this power?
Doesn't it bother you? Aren't you afraid,
That your clock is going to put you in your grave?
You're going to wake up one morning, feeling fine
And suddenly you realize that it's that time
You'll start to shake and sneeze & cough
And you'll look at your clock and your alarm will go off
Only this alarm won't be to start off your day
Sorry sir, you're going the other way.
You've seen your last second, your last minute, your last hour
And you'll have to listen because your clock has power.
For you've never questioned your clocks demands
And you know no other way but to jump at its commands
You're now its slave! It's now your master!
But - wait there's a way to prevent this disaster
Be your own ruler - start now! Today!
And break that damn clock that ticks our life away.

FACULTY

LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT

The graduating class of 1986 would like to leave the following items to these teachers:

To Mr. Aitken, a chance to express his hidden emotions.

To Mr. Butler and Mr. McEwen, a school filled with hundreds of ugly people.

To Mrs. Candib, a lifetime subscription to "Canadian Jewish News".

To Ms. Adams, one last date with Marlon Brando.

To Mr. Chuprun, an all female, feminist gym class.

To Mr. Ioannou, a case of beer.

To Mr. Frenay, student-proof rubber cement.

To Mr. Guilhamet, a PRELUDE staff that he can see working.

To Mr. Hodgson, an immobile pink chair.

To Mme Michot, a J.A.P.-free school.

To Mrs. Miller, her own personal make-up artist.

To Mr. Murison, students who don't destroy lab equipment, especially gas burets.

To Mrs. Riech, another trip to Stratford.

To Mr. Segal, a competent PRELUDE staff.

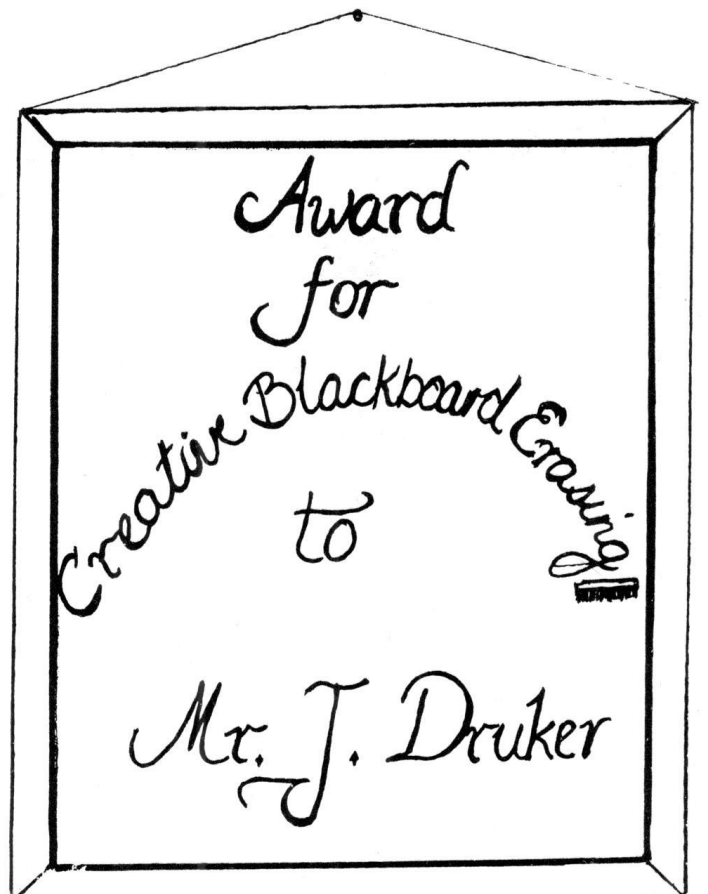

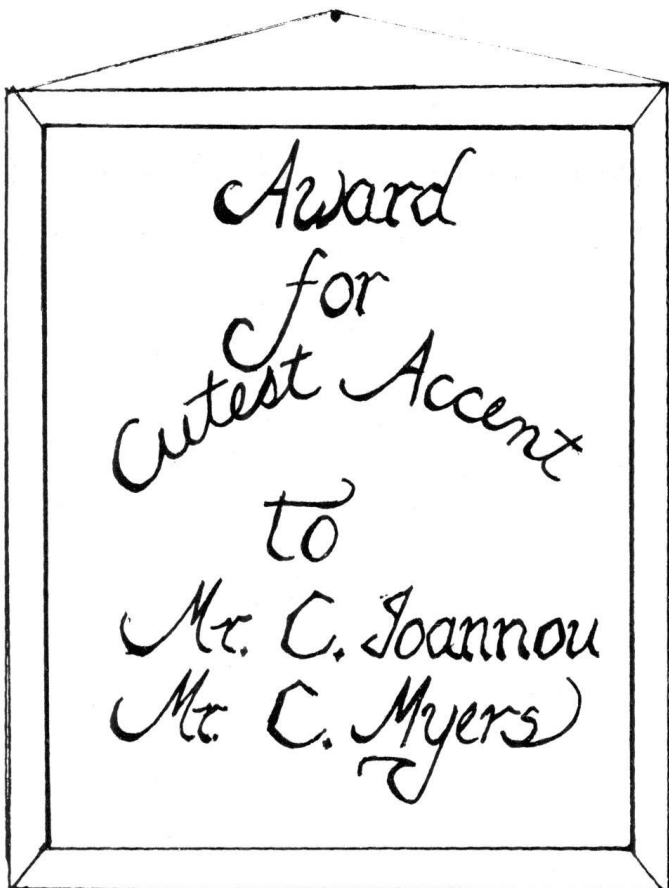

To Mrs. Sherman, a homeroom class.

To Miss Shuster, a bellhop to carry her bags.

To Mr. Superstein, a car so he can drive to school when he feels lazy.

To Mr. Wright, a REAL band.

Famous Quotes

While all the teachers at Wagar High are certainly memorable, there are some famous expressions we'll never forget . . .

"How's it going, sir?" Mr. Ioannov.

"Stop your chattin' boy! Don't you want to be my friend?" Mr. Myers

"If you're going to marry me off to someone, at least make him rich." MISS Rosenberg

"Negative, I have no emotions." Mr. Aitken

"Ordre, discipline et respecte . . ." Mme Himelfarb

"You're just a bunch of big babies!" Mrs. Cayne

"Ten minutes after school . . . ten minutes . . . ten, ten minutes!" Mr. Rosen

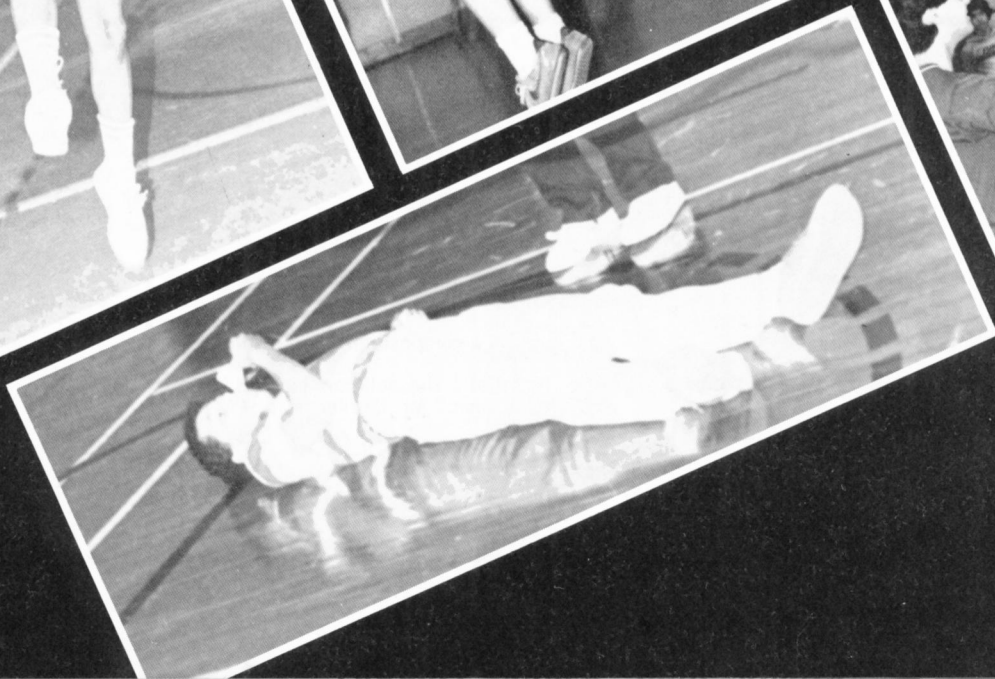

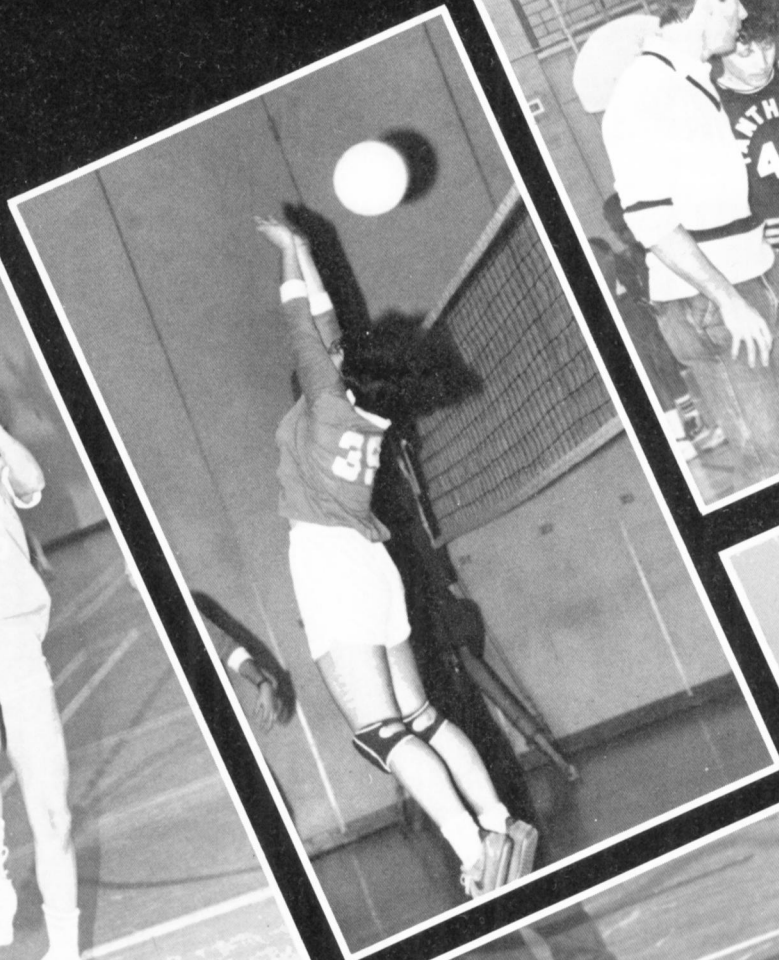

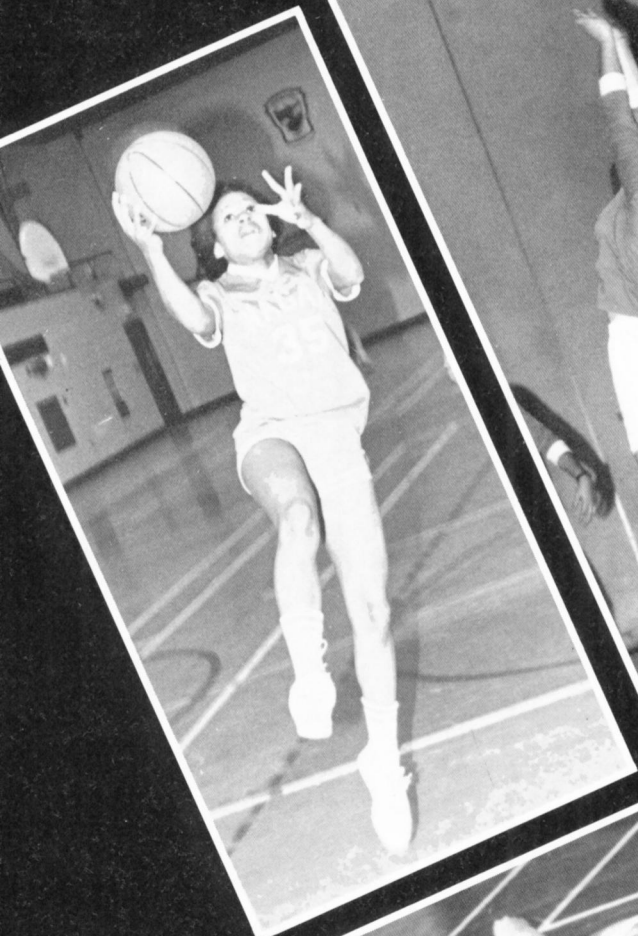

"I refuse to teach without my chair." Mr. Hodgson

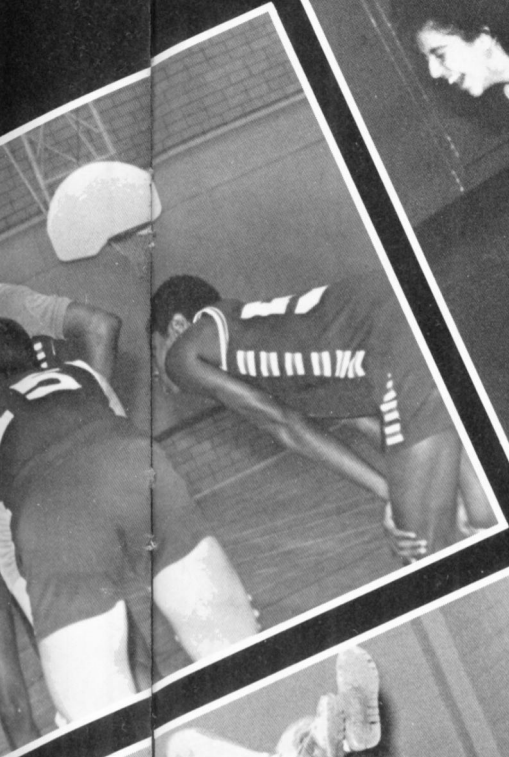

"You owe me a composition." Mr. Butler

"And, uh, that's the solution for this here problem, as such." Mr. Druker

"Don't talk to me - It's Day 7." Mrs. Sherman

Tennis Team

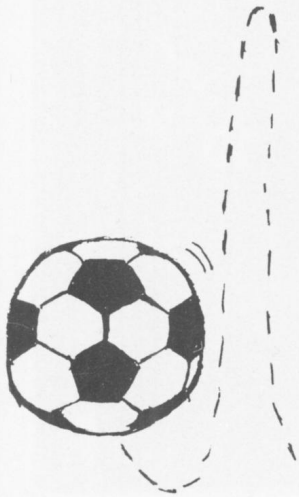

Although it's a little early in the season to say much about the Tennis Team, at least we can tell from the picture that if nothing else we have quite a goodlooking team (!?!). Actually rumor has it that Sean Siedman is a professional tennis player; so the team will probably do very well (only if this is true that is). We wish the team luck in all their future tennis endeavors.

Golf Team

Fore . . .! That's the number of swinging bachelors on this years golf team otherwise known as "Hacker's Anonymous". Coached by Mr. R. Shuster. The team fared quite respectably in their one tournament. We wish them better luck next year!

boy's juvenile volleyball

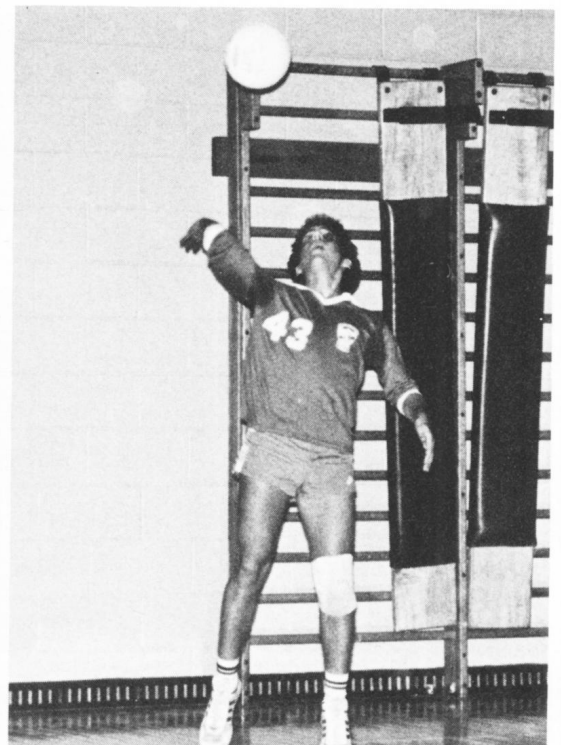

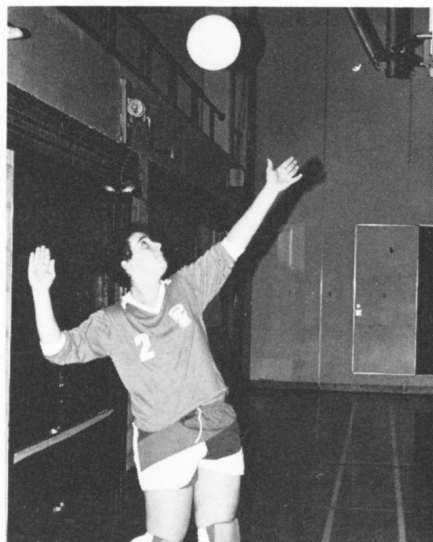

This years juvenile team, the only boy's volleyball team we had, fared quite well, improving immensely once the members discovered that it was easier to play using only one volleyball at a time, rather than three.

Coached by Mr. D. McEwen of ugly club fame, the team placed third in their division and only narrowly missed the play-offs.

It should be interesting to follow these excellent players as they move on to various CEGEP teams.

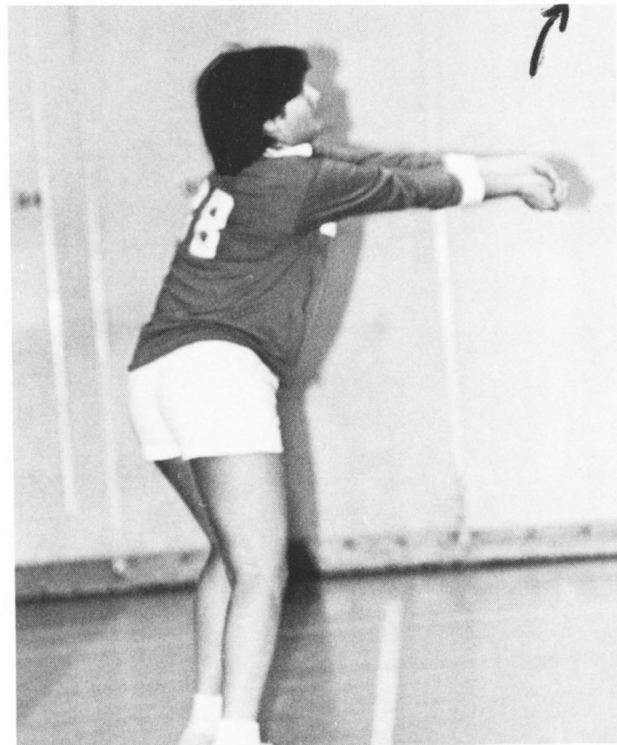

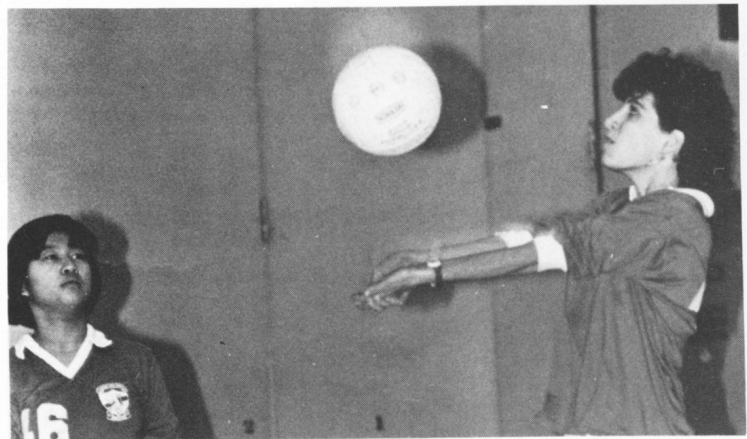

STANDING: Ricky Bronson, Robert Ferguson, Glenn Rosenoff, David Rosenberg, Mr. McEwen (coach) KNEELING: Jamie Finiffter, Kent Chow, Ari Cohen, Marc Fishman.

STANDING: Ella Wolofsky (As't coach), Tanya Galperin, Michele Shemi, Maureen Schwartz, Maureen Marovitch, Joelle Dayan, Miss D. Ross (coach), KNEELING: Sherrie Zepp, Josie Yip, Wynne Keing, Dena Seigal

This year's girl's team was a fascinating one to watch. Even though they lost more games than they won, they certainly did give the sport of volleyball an entirely new dimension.

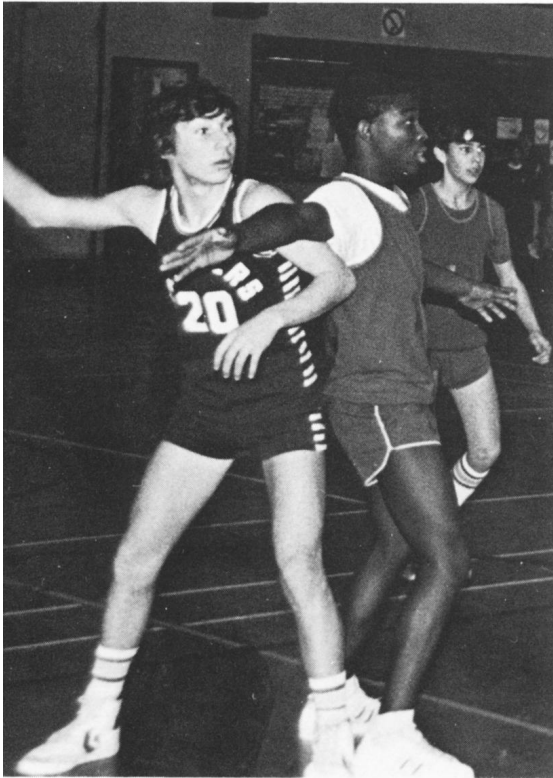

Coached by phys. ed. teacher Ms. Ross and former Wagar volleyball MVP, Ella Wolofsky, the team consisted of several veterans and three enthusiastic rookies, W. Keing, S. Zepp and J. Yip.

Although the group never quite won four games in a row, they did manage to accumulate a debt of over nineteen pounds in peanuts to their coaches.

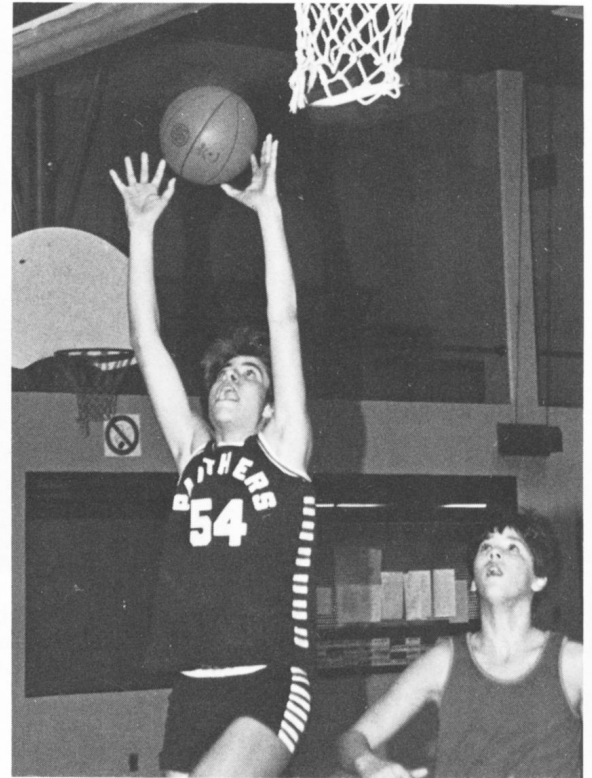

Better luck next year!

Bantam Boy's Basketball

This team practised hard but due to a young and somewhat inexperienced team, had only a fair season. Still, the guys are improving by leaps and bounds and with some practice and few inches of height should be near the top of their league in the future.

This year our team, led by coach Peter Butler, is small, young but always determined to win. Unfortunately we are presently winless in league play.

With key players like "Mighty# Leroy Raffington, Nigel "Theo# Robertson and David "The Dr." Rosenberg, things can only get better for us during the remainder of the season.

We are looking forward to next year when all but two players will be returning and will most likely be a reckoning force in the league.

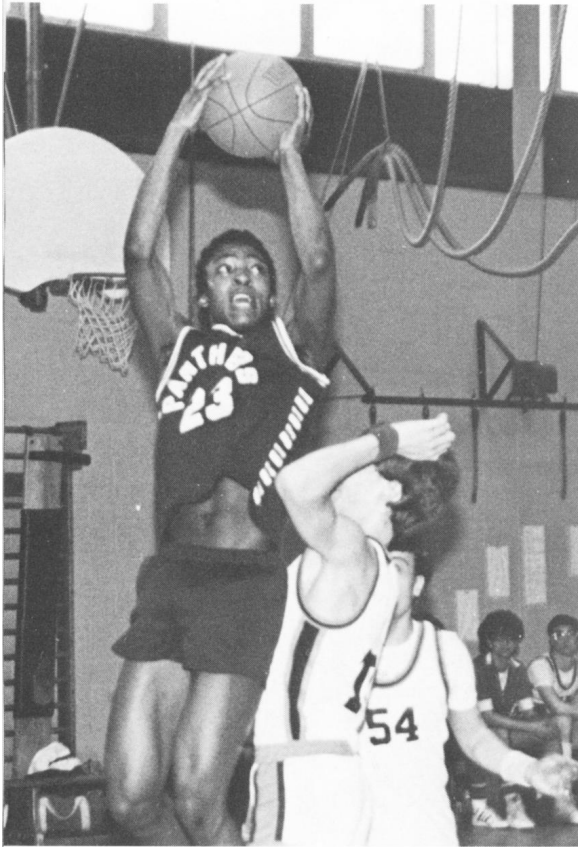

Midget Boy's Basketball

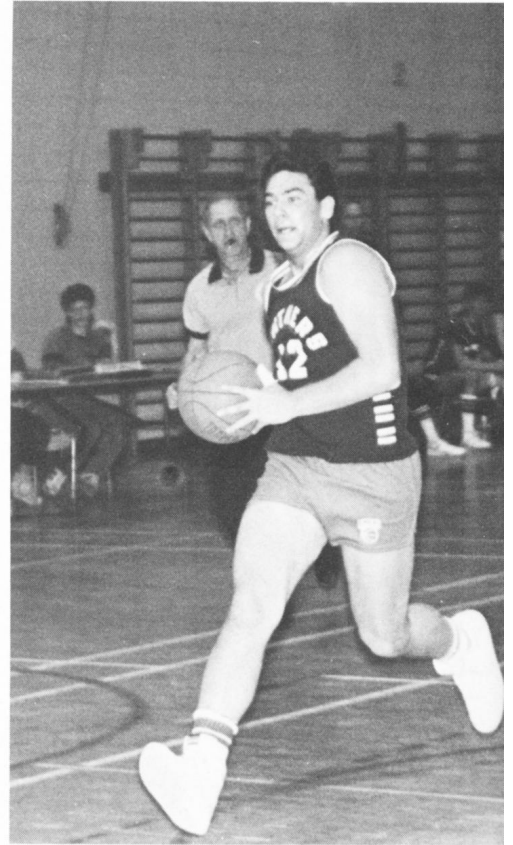

JUVENILE BOYS

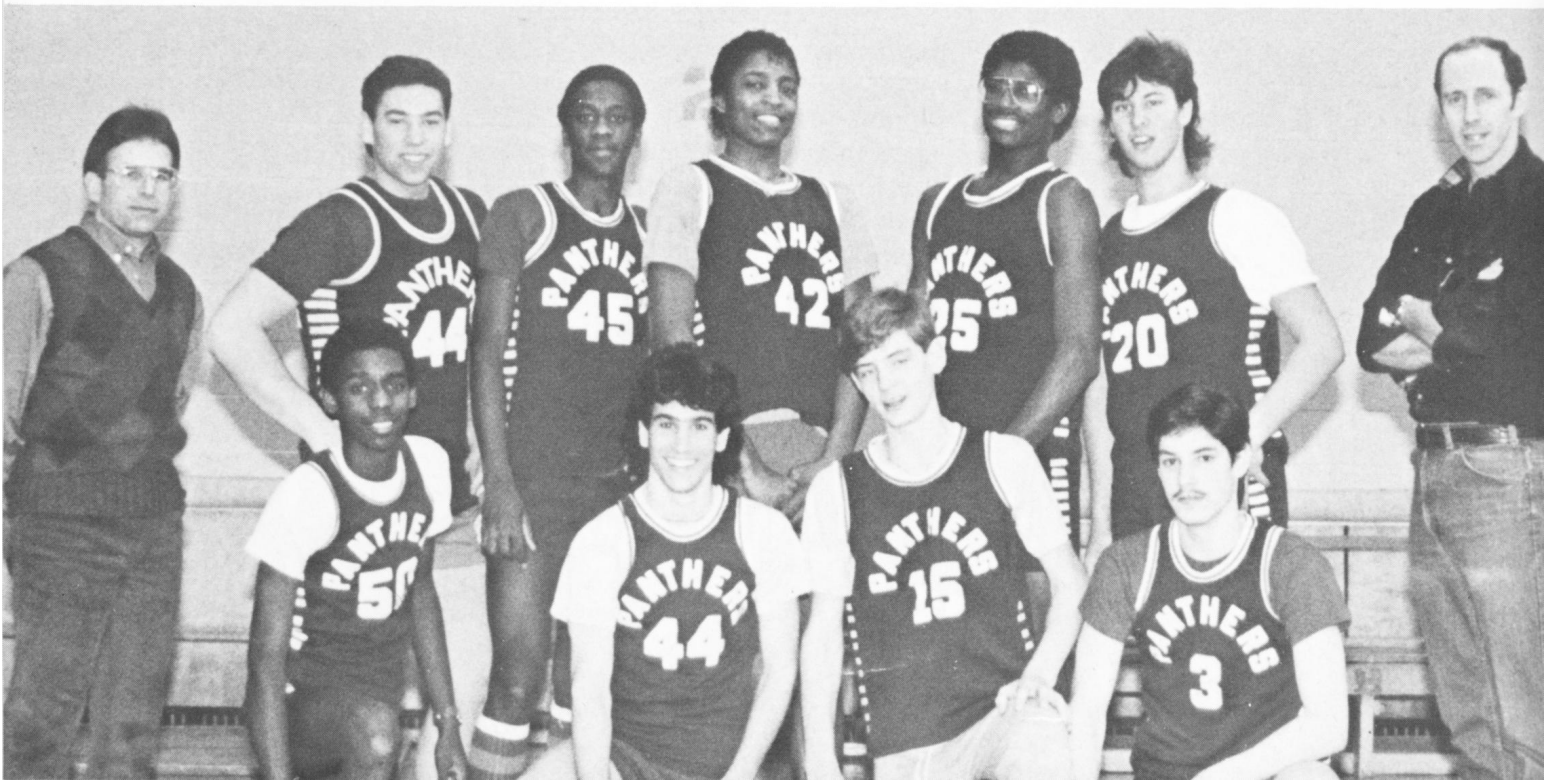

Wagar's Juvenile Boys Basketball team was off to a great start once again this year under the supervision of Jim "Why are you frustrated?" Aitken and newcomer Steve Forman. The team is led by Robert "try and stop him" Ferguson and Kiki "sure shot" Ezerzer on offense. Pounding the offensive and defensive boards, there was Rodney "B.A." Hampdon and Glenn "Rosie" Rosenoff. Handling the ball in the backcourt were two newcomers to Wagar basketball, Lorne "the stiltz" Wiltzer and Kevin "no right hand" Forman.

The team also has a much larger and more powerful bench than usual with Stephen "Splinters" Belfer, Jamie "I got 2 points!" Bassel and David "Hitman" Held. As well, there are two rising stars in Wagar basketball Alrick "Alright" Peters and Mark "Space" Belhomme.

The team is on a roll, keep it up guys!

The team . . . the Juvenile Girls Basketball team . . . just one look at their stretch-cling polyester bright blue uniforms, and you'll know that this group of feisty girls is something to look into. Under the strict supervision of Mr. Don Ugly McEwen, these girls have not only managed to become the funniest, but the ugliest group of players Wagar has ever encountered!

Under the most uncontrollable circumstances, the team had to be moved into a higher league this year, and therefore were out-classed by a few of the other teams. Actually, the girls didn't do too badly. They've managed to keep up a 50-50 win-lose record, which is quite good, considering the position they were in.

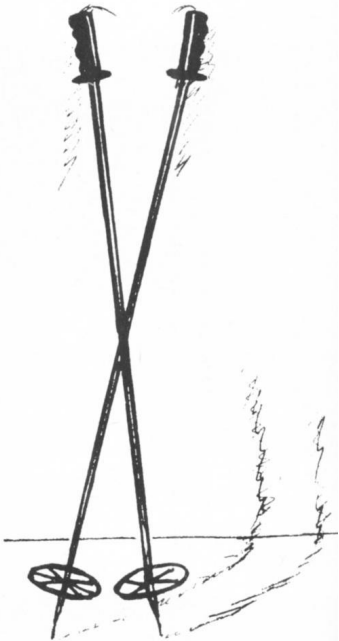

In all certainty, a great time was had by all, and the members of the team are definitely very grateful this year for having the opportunity to learn that the key to a good basketball team is . . . AGGRESSION!!!

GCO

This year's Graduating Class Organization has been working hard, organizing bottle drives, selling toothbrushes (yes, toothbrushes), Wagar sweatsuits, and raffle tickets to raise money for the grad dance to be held at the Sheraton Centre on May 22.

Muche thanks go to Anne-Marie Canakis & Gary Stoopler, Robyn Bregman student heads of GCO, as well as to financial advisor, Mr. Feigen and dance organizer, Ms. Adams.

With this enthusiastic committee and a pretty wild graduating class, the dance will most certainly be a smashing success!

STUDENT COUNCIL

Looking back on this year, we have experienced the organization of various activities to try to enrich the quality of life at Wagar. This year we have tried to change and improve upon the quality of the activities in order to increase spirit and participation at Wagar.

Winter carnival week '86 was a change from the yearly standard. We have broken away from the traditional activities in the Winter Carnival and experimented with original new activities which were very successful. We hope they will be repeated in future Winter Carnivals Wagar's Toga Dance was one of the highlights of our Winter Carnival, and we appreciated the enthusiasm and participation of Wagar students.

As presidents, we would like to thank our student council for their hard work and great ideas. We hope that in the years to come, Wagar Student Councils can try to improve students' spirit and participation at Wagar.

This fall, a group of very innocent (or at least innocent-looking) graduating students had the opportunity to visit the cultural capital of the world . . . Stratford, Ontario:

There we were exposed to quality drama in the form of three wonderful plays; She Stoops To Conquer, King Lear, and The Glass Menagerie. Due to fabulous seating during King Lear, we were able to get very close to the performance; so close in fact, that some of us even experienced the thrill of being showered by some overexcited actors.

On the whole, the trip went very smoothly (one could even say it was "golden" sailing) and was extremely enriching and enjoyable for all of us.

Special thanks go out to Ms. Adams and Mrs. Reich for letting us coax them into taking us and for being the best and most understanding chaperones we could ask for.

We Wagar students will never forget our Stratford experience and we are sure that Stratford will never forget us.

STRATFORD FESTIVAL

Early October 2nd, 1985, some eager grade 10 students, along with Miss Cox and Miss Rosenberg, set out for Stratford, Ontario where She Stoops To Conquer, The Glass Menagerie, and King Lear were being shown.

The group spent three days at the luxurious Queen's Hotel. The time flew by and before they knew it the last night was upon them. They congregated at the Jester of Arms for one final fling. It was a trip to be remembered by all.

REACH FOR THE TOP

C. Albert, M. Kahn, L. Ptito, A. Steinberg, D. Rosman

Although CBC discontinued Reach for the Top last year, a number of teams from high schools around Montreal formed a league, in which Wagar was successful once again.

After several weeks of intensive training and preparation, we were eager to begin competition. The squad kicked off the season in early October with a convincing victory over the rookie ECS team. The team then marched on to victory over the casual but skilled Loyola crew. Under the superb guidance of their coaches, Ms. Co and Mrs. Sherman, with help of Jeff Goldstein at the buzzer, the team scored a hard fought win over the determined Rosemont squad. With the momentum of a 3-0 record and some more hard work, the team managed to win their next three confrontations to claim the division title and earn a berth in the city finals, which are to take place in early February. Proud to represent Wagar at the finals, the team has greatly enjoyed playing this year, and thanks you for your support.

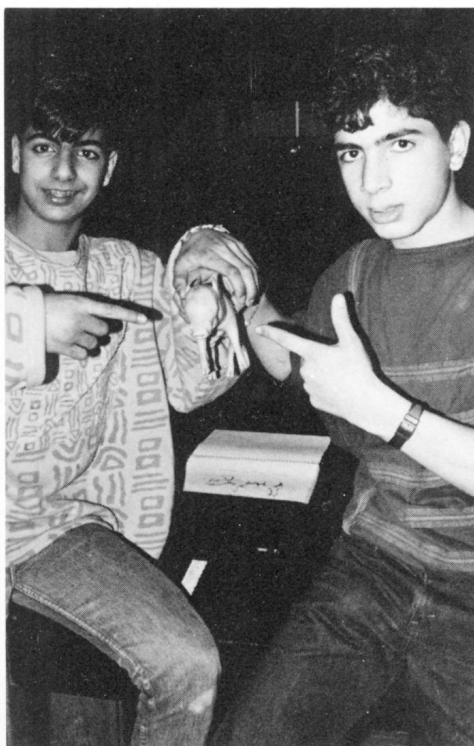

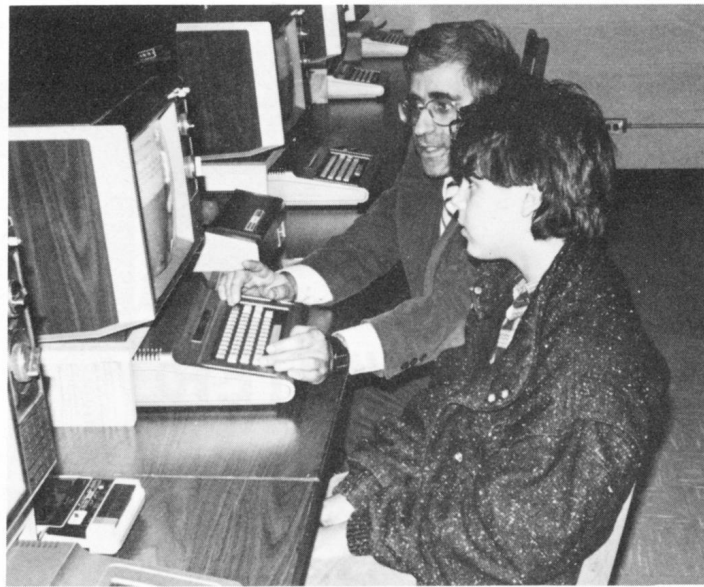

- David Rosman

LIBRARY AIDS

The library aids are one group in school who certainly don't get the recognition that they deserve. Think for a moment what life at Wagar would be like without them . . . you would have to put the books that you use away yourselves, you would have no one to bother you by asking if you need any help, there would be no one to say to you, "You can't use that until Miss Dhillon comes back."

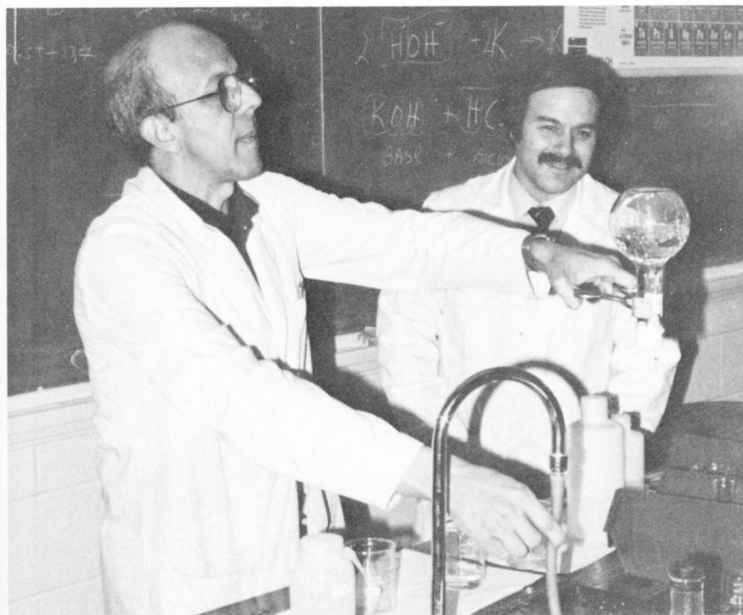

But seriously, we'd like to thank all of you (S. Sterthal, S. Vineberg, M. Gruenberg, M. Dickie, T. Davis, and of course Miss Dhillon) for being the best library aids that any school could ever have!

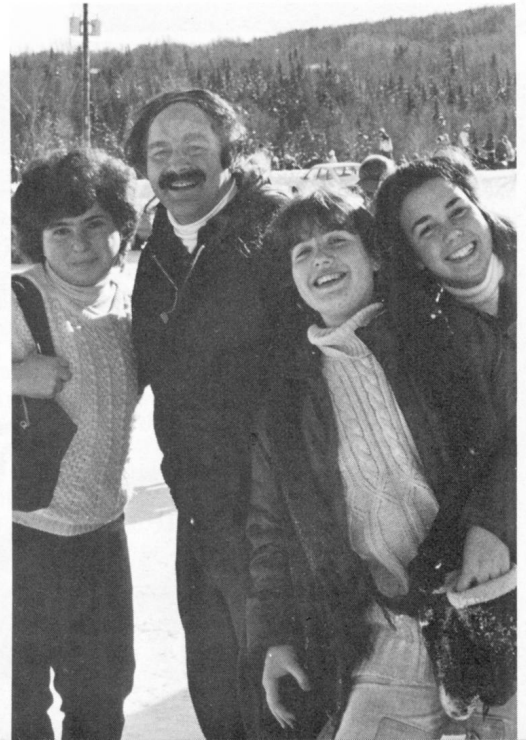

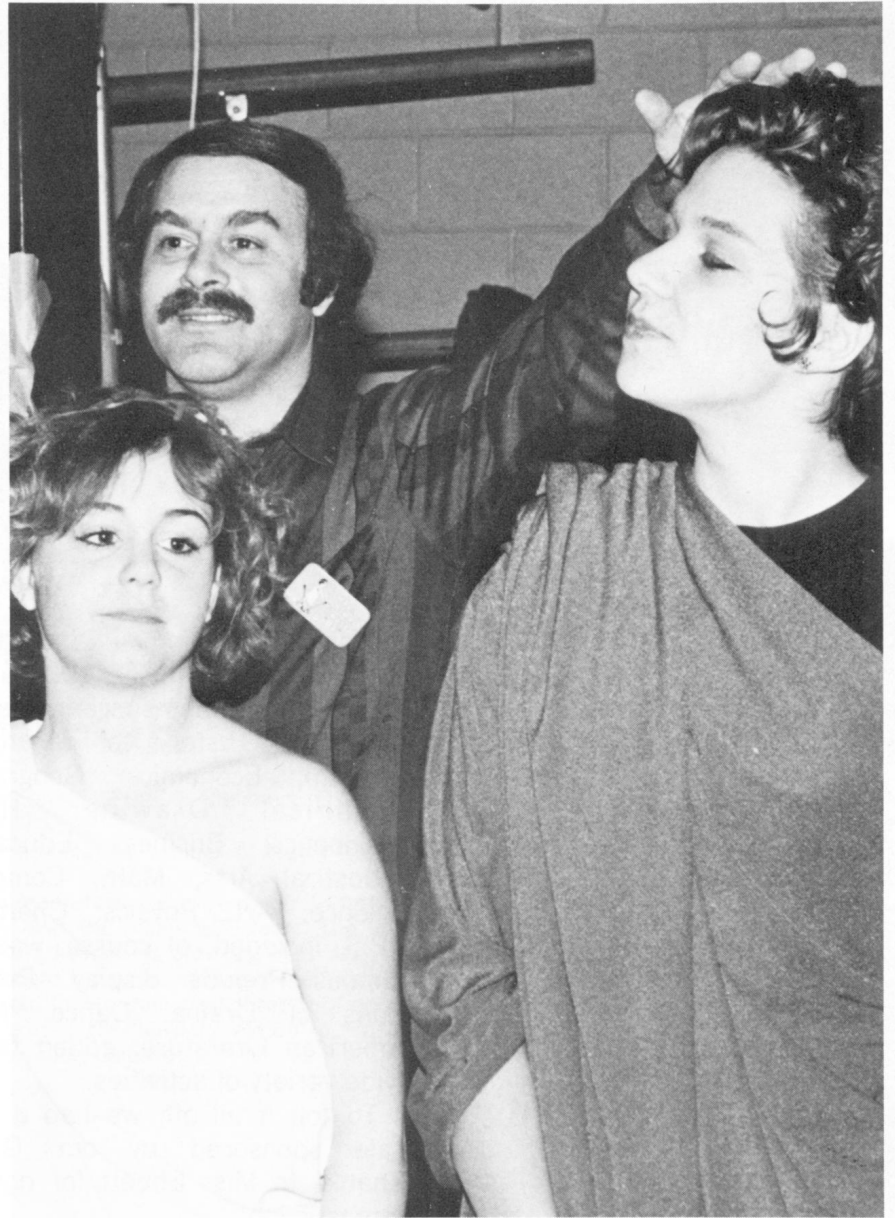

OPEN HOUSE

Wagar's fifth annual Open House took place on Jan. 30, 1986 and it was a tremendous success. We had displays in History (In French and English); Economics; Geography; Technical Drawing; Home Economics; Business Education; Industrial Arts; Math; Computer Science; Art; Physics; Chemistry I.P.S; included, of course, was our famous Prelude display. Productions of Drama, Dance, North American Literature; added to our wide variety of activities.

To top it all off, we had a bake sale sponsored by our G.C.O. Thanks to Miss Ebbett for doing a fantastic job!

WINTER CARNIVAL

We're Just a Bunch of Animals!

"Toga, toga, toga!"

Our inventive student council did a great job putting together Wagar's first ever "Animal House" Winter Carnival. Hundreds of students could be seen roaming the halls, sporting the colourful carnival pins and signing up for the various activities.

Pictured here are some of the many fun, madcap events including cross-country skiing, alpine skiing at Jay Peak, tobogganing at Mt. Avila and a night time toga dance. (We also would have printed photos of students at the Pinochio Arcade and the Garbage Bowl game but one photographer had to pawn his camera to get some more quarters and the other photographer was tackled during an offensive play by team A.)

After school, students also got a chance to see the famous 'Animal House' movie.

All in all, everyone had a superb time!

The Fish Club

Motto - "We're neither for nor against apathy"
 Slogan - "Semper Dementat" The Zoomers are fun-loving, happy-go-lucky, young men who are firm believers in penguin lust and lettuce. The Zoomers have nothing in common with each other, other than the fact they all enjoy oxygen and they will be escaping the corridors of Wagar this year (even though they haven't realized they ever were in Wagar).

They exist because we let them exist. The Anti-Zoomers are a group of blonde haired hoodlums who have nothing better to do than stand on chairs behind the Zoomers and hold up a sign that says "Anti-Zoomer".

THE UGLY CLUB

The administration of Wagar's Ugly Club is awfully pleased (or something - they have trouble expressing themselves) to announce the addition of a new member to their ranks. Don Ugly was bored of telling Pete Ugly how very ugly he is, (see Prelude 1984) especially his knees. Pete Ugly became even more tired of saying that Don Ugly's ugliness is insurmountable. (Pete Ugly is an English teacher, you know.) So they held a meeting of the Admissions Committee, and now, for variety, they can ponder Rick Ugly's more youthful brand of ugliness.

The Ugly Club was founded in 1980, when P.U. and D.U., entering Wagar's hallowed halls together, were surrounded by calls of, "Boy, are you guys UGLY!" P.U. and D.U. are more than just ugly. Membership to the Ugly Club requires true dedication to the ideals of ugly behavior, old blue vehicles and tired dogs. (or tired pigeons, in Rick's case.)

When asked for a quote, Don Ugly gave this reporter a pretty ugly look and snorted, "We are oxy-norons. What is a quote?" Pete Ugly shrugged, grunted and mumbled something about having been an ugly child. As for Rick Ugly, he is still trying to grasp the tradition, the essence of true ugliness.

The Ugly Club and its new member wish to extend their condolences to the throngs of beautiful applicants who did not quite make it. Better luck next year!
